

COOLIDGE-DAWES SWEEP TO VICTORY IN LANDSLIDE; INCOMPLETE RETURNS SHOW 302 G. O. P. ELECTORS

Georgia Voters Ratify All Eight Amendments

STATE PILES UP BIG DAVIS VOTE; LA FOLLETTE LAST

Democratic Candidate in 770 Precincts Receives 60,123 Against 13,869 for Coolidge and 5,772 for La Follette.

BIENNIAL SESSIONS PROVES EASY WINNER

Other Amendments Apparently Ratified by Good Margins—Governor Walker Gets Large Vote Over Baylor.

Georgia went democratic in the election Tuesday by an overwhelming majority, giving its electoral votes to John W. Davis for president, and re-election to Clifford M. Walker, as governor.

At the same time the voters approved eight amendments to the state constitution by big majorities.

Returns early this morning from 799 out of a total of 1,735 precincts in the state gave for president: John W. Davis 68,813; Calvin Coolidge 15,341; Robert M. La Follette 6,580; Gilbert O. Nations 62; Herbert P. Paris 52.

Four years ago the vote of the state for president was:

James M. Cox, democrat, 107,162; Warren G. Harding, republican, 43,720.

Biennial Sessions Carry. Probably the greatest interest in the constitutional amendments centered in that providing for biennial sessions of the legislature. This was approved by over three to one, while the vote from 641 precincts were tabulated. This gave for the amendment 37,139 and against 9,590.

Peach county, 641 precincts reporting, won by a vote of over two to one, the figures on this tabulation being 37,641 to 15,492 against.

The manufacturers' exemption amendment received 32,523 favorable votes to 10,522 unfavorable in returns from 607 precincts.

Coolidge Captures Pickens. Pickens, one of the north Georgia counties, sprung into the Coolidge column with 832 votes to 398 for Davis on the basis of incomplete returns.

No counties were in the La Follette column at this tabulation. He polled 1,412 votes in Fulton county, carrying three precincts. President Coolidge nearly doubled Senator La Follette in this county, getting 2,082 votes in 82 of the 83 precincts, while the same precincts gave 7,532 votes to the Coolidge column.

Incomplete returns from Lowndes county indicated Coolidge was leading Davis. The actual vote will show definitely if this county is to go into the president's ranks. Normally it is a democratic county.

Fourteen precincts of a total of 15 in Richmond, of which Augusta is the county seat, gave Davis 3,146 votes, Coolidge 1,246 and La Follette 369.

In the governor's race, Clifford M. Walker, democratic candidate, for re-election, in returns from 678 precincts, had received 45,130 votes to 1,447 for his opponent, H. Bedinger Baylor, independent. Other statewide officers had no opposition.

All Amendments Pass. All of the proposed constitutional amendments, eight in number, have received the necessary two-thirds majorities in the votes reported.

OPPORTUNITY'S KNOCK

Look Up

You must look up before you can start up the long way that leads to success. Aspiration points out the distant goal.

The man who aspires to great things must make up his mind to master all sorts of little ones. Hard work has turned many a traveler from the path he had decided to follow. The beaten path is easy, but it leads nowhere.

Look up—to catch a glimpse of your goal—when you are discouraged. But keep your eyes on the road ahead all the rest of the time!

And some of the time—glance through the opportunity offers in The Constitution's Classified Columns.

Coolidge Strength In Fulton County Is Great Surprise

John W. Davis Carries County Safely, But Republican Opponent Gets Heavy Vote.

COUNTY RETURNS FAIL TO BOOST LA FOLLETTE

All Constitutional Amendments Win by Big Big Majorities—13,000 Votes Cast.

Polling a total of 13,003 votes, an unusually heavy ballot for a general election, Fulton county Tuesday gave John W. Davis a substantial majority over the combined vote of opponents in the presidential race, and also rolled up big majorities for all of the eight constitutional amendments submitted to the state for approval.

The total unofficial vote as compiled by The Constitution in the presidential race was:

Davis, 8,081.

Coolidge, 3,307.

La Follette, 1,545.

Nations, 50.

Paris, 20.

The chief feature of the election from the standpoint of this county was the surprising strength shown by Calvin Coolidge, republican presidential nominee, who polled over 3,000 votes.

In view of the fact that this is a democratic stronghold, Coolidge's strength came as a distinct surprise. It is understood that the Coolidge vote is the largest ever received by a republican presidential candidate in this county, with the lone exception of the Harding total four years ago.

Robert M. La Follette, independent who was given the endorsement of the local federation of trades, failed to show the pulling power that his local supporters had predicted for him.

Coolidge Carries Ward.

Of Fulton county's 34 precincts, Davis carried 23, Coolidge carried 2 and La Follette 3. Davis carried every ward in the city except one, the first ward, which was carried by Coolidge. The first ward is a negro section. Coolidge carried this ward by a vote of 286 to 66 for Davis.

In addition, Coolidge carried B precinct of the fourth ward by a vote of 287 to 183 for Davis.

La Follette carried A precinct of the fifth ward in the city, the vote being: La Follette 131, Coolidge 125, Davis 110. In addition, La Follette carried Cook's and Collins districts, two small precincts in the county.

The county vote on the constitutional amendments, in the order in which they attracted interest here, was as follows:

Peach county: 6,362 for; 3,475 against.

Biennial sessions: 7,545 for; 1,659 against.

Savannah state terminal bonds: 7,264 for; 1,258 against.

New industry tax exemptions: 6,856 for; 1,966 against.

Consolidation of offices of collector and receiver: 7,359 for; 1,609 against.

Consolidation of city and county governments: 6,033 for; 1,553 against.

Creation of coastal highway bond district: 7,257 for; 1,344 against.

To allow Brunswick to increase bonded indebtedness: 8,193 for; 1,154 against.

The county gave Governor Clifford Walker an overwhelming majority in his race for reelection over his independent democratic opponent, H. Bedinger Baylor. The final complete vote was: Walker, 12,350; Baylor, 284.

Heavy Vote Total.

Voters of Fulton county swarmed to the polls Tuesday in numbers far greater than is usual in general elections, the total vote being approximately 12,000. The "crescental" march to the ballot box has heretofore been an event of routine; but with the opening of city and county voting places Tuesday morning it was indicated that a record vote for a general election would be recorded in Atlanta and Fulton county.

Largely responsible for the enthusiasm with which voters in this interest greeted the election was the interest which has been manifested in the race of John W. Davis. Ideal Continued on Page 11, Column 2.

Three persons were killed in election disorders over the United States Tuesday, two at Jackson, Tenn., and one at Chicago.

At Jackson another person was injured, and at Chicago, two.

Two men were stabbed in separate fights at the polls in Detroit, Mich. This dispenses with the casualties of what other reports show was one of the most peaceful elections in years, although in populous centers the ballot appears to have passed all records. New York, with 3,000,000 votes cast, was lacking in election troubles.

1 KILLED, 2 SHOT AT CHICAGO POLLS

Chicago, November 4.—One man was killed, two others shot, several kidnapped and scores intimidated with threats of death today in election violence in Chicago.

John MacKay was shot to death while sitting in an automobile near a west side polling place by assailants who fired from another car. Claud Maddox, with MacKay, was seriously wounded.

Shortly after the polls opened a group of men opened fire upon a polling place near the stock yards, seriously wounding Anton Rudzinski.

Nathan Finestone, a La Follette lieutenant, was slugged, suffering a fractured skull. His assailant escaped.

Half a million votes were cast before noon and more than 800,000, a record-breaking number, when the polls closed.

GUARDSMEN SENT TO "BLOODY WILLIAMSON"

Marion, Ill., November 4.—One hundred and five Illinois national guardsmen kept the peace in "Bloody Williamson" county Tuesday.

Glenn Young, noted Ku Klux Klan liquor raider, clashed with a deputy sheriff at Herrin and was brought to Marion Tuesday night under guard.

TWO STABBED IN DETROIT POLL FIGHT

Detroit, November 4.—Patrolman Frank Primovich and Emil Ritz were stabbed here this evening in two fights at the same polling place.

The patrolman was stabbed when he attempted to stop a fight between groups supporting rival candidates for mayor.

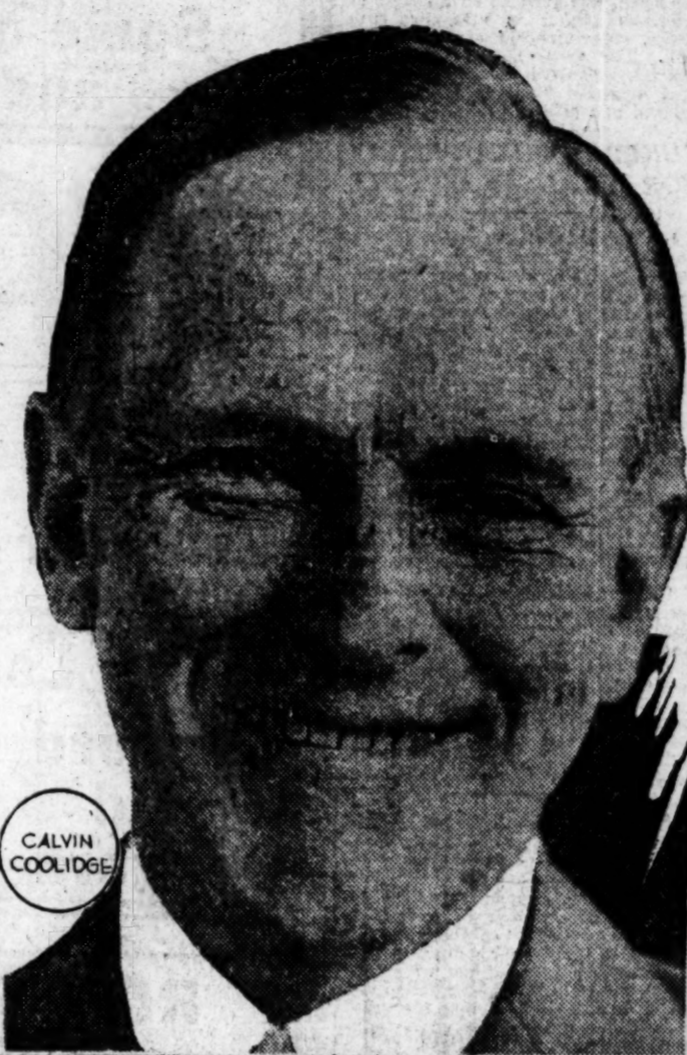

Police reserves quelled the belligerents, but after the reserves left trouble broke out again and Ritz was stabbed in the leg. Both men were removed to a hospital where it was said the wounds were not dangerous.

Powers, 50, who was defeated in the August primary as republican candidate for magistrate in Henderson county, according to advice received here from Lexington, county seat of Henderson county.

Rogers was acting in the role of peacekeeper when he was wounded, according to reports received here. Powers is said to have escaped after the shooting in an automobile.

MRS. FERGUSON CLAIMS ELECTION

She Assails Ku Klux Klan and Praises Texas as "Still True to Ideals of Democracy."

Temple, Texas, November 4.—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, of Temple, who, on the face of early returns in today's general election, has been named governor of Texas, issued a statement to the Associated Press tonight, in which she said:

"Texas is still loyal to the ideals of true democracy, despite the mouthings of political preachers and some school teachers seeking to lure democrats into betrayal of their honor."

She assailed the Ku Klux Klan for its alleged activity against her in the campaign, and added that "the people have seen the slimy trail of the serpent along which these river bottom censors of morals and violations of ballot pledges have led their complacent and pliable tool, and they have spoken in a voice not to be misunderstood."

"Hate has been the slogan of the opposition," Mrs. Ferguson said. "Venom is its pass word and slander, falsehood and misrepresentation its platform."

DR. BUTTE REFUSES TO CONCEDE DEFEAT

Austin, Texas, November 4.—(By The Associated Press.)—Dr. George D. Butte, republican candidate for governor, at 10 o'clock tonight, declined to concede the election of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, democratic nominee. He said large counties, which had not been heard from, would turn the balance to him.

VERMONT VOTERS USE SAP BUCKETS AND FIGHT SNOW

SCORE OF VOTES CAST FOR DAVIS BY ONE FAMILY

Frankfort, Ky.—Ben Marshall, state official, his one wife, his eleven children and seven daughters and sons-in-law paraded down town to vote for Davis and Senator Stanley.

LYRIC'S PURCHASE FOR NEW BUILDING VOTED BY A. A. C.

S. A. Lynch Agrees To Accept $275,000 for Theater—New Home Will Cost $500,000.

Immediate purchase of the Lyric theater property, fronting 100 feet on Carnegie way and 200 feet on Cone street, for $275,000, for erection of a magnificent seven-story club to cost $500,000, was authorized Tuesday night by the members of the Atlanta Athletic club, when they reaffirmed their vesting of full authority in the board of directors to proceed with arrangements for a new city club.

The vote was unanimous. It was taken after details of a proposition by S. A. Lynch, Atlanta capitalist, for the club's acquisition of the Lyric site and tentative plans for the new building were laid before the membership.

Papers will be ready in a few days, it was said Tuesday night, for the transfer of title of the Lyric site to the athletic club, but construction will not be started until late next spring. The property, according to the proposal laid before the membership last night, does not call for the actual transfer of the property until April, 1925.

Terms of Purchase. The terms on which the club will acquire the Lyric property call for $100,000 first payment, with the remaining $175,000 secured by second mortgage bonds. Under Mr. Lynch's agreement with the directors of the club, he will accept the present club building at the end of the three years as the first payment, but allows the club to dispose of this property for any figure above $100,000.

Under a motion by Jack Stewart, President Hudson will appoint a committee of five to canvass the membership in an effort to learn how much of the $175,000 second mortgage bond issue, bearing 6 per cent interest, individual members will take. The purchase will be made a cash transaction if the membership takes the entire amount.

Several months ago the club investigated plans for purchase of the Healey property at Auburn avenue and Ivy street at a reported figure of $225,000, but the board of directors decided that erection of the million-dollar city club proposed at that time could not be financed and an option on the property was allowed to expire.

Financing Investigated.

The board of directors announced Tuesday night that, acting on the authority vested in it at the meeting after abandonment of the Healey property building plan, it has already.

AL SMITH ELECTED AGAIN IN NEW YORK

Coolidge Carries Empire State Over John W. Davis by Majority of Almost 2 to 1.

New York, November 5.—New York state gave its electoral vote to Coolidge and Dawes, but re-elected its democratic governor, Alfred E. Smith. It was agreed in the camps of the two leading political parties early today.

The republican national ticket swept the state with a vote that was almost double that for Davis and Bryan, when all but 784 districts, out of a total of 7,563 had been reported. The vote was heavy and in many districts the counting correspondingly slow.

Governor Smith rolled up a vote in New York city that offset the early margin that Theodore Roosevelt had upstaged and gave him a lead of approximately 114,000 when 935 districts were missing. Of these, 395 were in this city.

At 2 o'clock this morning the total tabulated votes, for Coolidge and Dawes was 1,648,202 and that for Davis and Bryan 872,771. In the same districts, La Follette received 418,836 votes.

COOLIDGE SURE TO GET 302 VOTES

At 1 o'clock this morning, practically conclusive returns from 30 states distributed 396 electoral votes in such manner as to assure the election of President Coolidge even if he should not carry another state. The results are:

REPORTED MUTINY OF CREW CONFIRMED

Buenos Aires, November 4.—The Brazilian embassy here today confirmed reports that the crew of the Brazilian battleship Sao Paulo had mutinied, seized the vessel and sailed outside of Rio de Janeiro harbor.

The statement indicated that the battleship subsequently anchored outside and was being fired at this morning by the harbor forts.

WOMAN MAY WIN WYOMING RACE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Cheyenne, Wyo., November 5.—Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross swept into the lead in the Wyoming gubernatorial race this morning with a majority of 1,000 over her republican opponent, Eugene J. Sullivan.

These returns showed Coolidge and Dawes carrying New York city, but his home town gave Governor Smith something like 400,000 plurality. Upstate counties went strongly republican, Roosevelt capturing several cities that were carried by Smith two years ago.

The republicans claimed the balance of the state ticket, but because of the heavy vote, this had not been counted in many districts.

Republicans also claimed both branches of the legislature.

DEMOCRATS HOLD HOPE UNTIL LAST VOTE IS COUNTED

"Remember 1916," Their Slogan—Smith Wins in New York, "Ma" Ferguson in Texas.

LA FOLLETTE "SCARE" PROVES A FIZZLE

Republicans Annex Two New Seats in Senate; Klan Candidate Becomes Kansas Governor.

New York, November 4.—(Special.) Calvin Coolidge will be the next president of the United States.

Charles G. Dawes will be the next vice president.

These facts became certain shortly after midnight, when a tabulation of states, in which Coolidge-Dawes victory either had been conceded or was reasonably certain on the face of the returns, gave the republican nominees a total in the electoral college of 302 votes—36 more than the necessary 266.

The table includes such states as West Virginia, home state of John W. Davis, which was swept into the Coolidge-Dawes column by a majority of more than 10,000 votes. It includes Kentucky, where the G. O. P. nominees were well in the lead, and New Jersey, which was fast following in the footsteps of its neighbor, New York, in piling up a Coolidge majority.

Solid South Not Enough. On the face of early returns John W. Davis had made certain of 139 electoral votes, mostly from the rock-ribbed democratic states of the solid south. Davis was in the lead in Missouri and at midnight seemed to have that state safely stowed in his war-bag—but Missouri was not counted in his total. In Oklahoma Davis held an apparently safe majority, while Jack Walton, democratic nominee for United States senator, was buried beneath a landslide of votes cast for his republican opponent, Pine.

La Follette, whose candidacy was a menacing specter to leaders of both old parties throughout the campaign, won out in only one state, Wisconsin. His chances seemed slim elsewhere, with the possible exception of Minnesota and Washington. Even his popularity vote fell far below the figures his managers had confidently expected even in the most pessimistic moments.

G. O. P. Wins New Senators. In the senatorial races the republicans apparently have annexed two new seats—One in Massachusetts, now held by David I. Walsh, and another in Kentucky, held by Senator Stanley. Walsh was defeated by Frederick H. Gillette, speaker of the house, and favorite of President Coolidge.

In New York Al Smith overcame an early upstate lead given his republican opponent and at 1 o'clock this morning had been conceded election by the republican chairman.

Shortly after leaving Carbon Hill, Tenn., Mrs. Worley was taken ill, and a physician summoned. Her condition was not considered serious, however, and she was permitted to continue her journey. She grew worse, and at Willacoochee, physicians were again summoned and medical aid rendered. She died shortly after the train left Willacoochee.

POLK COUNTY GOES DEMOCRATIC AGAIN AFTER 1920 SLIP

Senator William J. Harris spent Tuesday in Cedartown, his home city, and returned to Atlanta early Tuesday night with the information that Polk county reversed its vote of 1920, which placed it in the republican column, and piled up a handsome majority for John W. Davis.

Tuesday's election was the second time Polk county has gone democratic since the civil war, the only other exception to its republican majority being when Woodrow Wilson carried the county in 1916.

Senator Harris expressed much gratification because of the democratic majority shown by his home county. He said reports were broadcast throughout the nation in 1924 that the Georgia senior senator's home county had been claimed by the republican fold. He added that his most earnest hope was that similar publicity would be given to the fact that Polk county has had enough of such administrations as have been witnessed since the republicans took the helm released by Woodrow Wilson.

The chief contests in the county were for state attorney and coroner.

The tests have been entirely successful, and it is expected that regular direct traffic will begin soon. The Swedish station, one of the biggest and most up-to-date of its kind in northern Europe, is practically completed.

It is claimed here that this direct wireless connection between Sweden and America will prove of the greatest importance in widening and stimulating cooperation in all lines between the two countries.

CONVICTS' HEROISM WINS THEM LIBERTY

Miami, Fla., November 4.—Heroism displayed by them when D. D. Brooke, county prison warden, was killed by a premature explosion of dynamite last Friday has resulted in the release of three convicts from prison here. They are John Kelly, Charles Overman and Harry Wolfson, who, though injured themselves by the blast, placed the dying official in an automobile and drove to a hospital. Kelly attempted to reach Brooke and his wife, but was fatally injured in the blast while the fuse to a second charge was still burning and was nearly killed by the following explosion. The three released convicts, who had been serving terms for larceny, were granted their freedom at a special meeting of the county commissioners.

SPANISH OFFICIALS HERE ON INSPECTION

Colonel Fermin Espallargas, of the general staff of the king of Spain, and Major V. Casajus, an attaché of the Spanish embassy in Washington, who are flying over America in an airplane and making inspections of schools of every sort. Tuesday dropped unannounced into Atlanta and were treated to a military parade and exhibition by students of the Boys' High school. Continuing their tour, officers of King Alfonso's army will fly shortly to Athens for an inspection of the University of Georgia, it was said.

VOTERS OF GEORGIA RATIFY AMENDMENTS

providing for the legislature to meet every two years, beginning in 1925, instead of annually, as at present, had 27,206 favorable votes to 6,523 negative ballots, in returns tabulated from 578 precincts. This was a majority of nearly 4 to 1.

Peach county got 25,484 affirmative votes to 9,517 negative in returns from 578 precincts. This amendment was defeated by the electors two years ago. It will be the 161st county in Georgia.

The amendment to exempt certain industries from taxation for a period of five years was favored by 24,787 voters and opposed by 8,850 voters in returns tabulated from 557 precincts.

Votes on Tax Offices.

For the consolidation of tax receiver and tax collector offices, 25,275 voters gave their approval to the proposed amendment, while 10,486 opposed it, on returns from 557 precincts.

The coastal paving amendment rolled up 26,342 votes, as compared with 6,230 unfavorable ballots, when 545 precincts reported.

The Savannah bonds amendment registered 24,440 votes for and 5,155 against, according to returns from 545 precincts.

The Brunswick bonds polled 27,206 favorable votes to 8,131 unfavorable, on returns from 557 precincts.

In a number of counties where returns were not completed, reports indicated that all the constitutional amendments would carry.

Most of the votes reported during the night represented the largest precincts in the counties. Returns from some of the outlying country districts were slow in reporting in some instances. As the tabulation proceeded, the figures indicated that Georgia was voting in the usual way.

Two of the congressional nominees had opposition, namely Thomas M. Bell, in the ninth, and Charles G.

Edwards, in the first. The latter had two opponents, Herbert G. Aaron and Don H. Clark, both of whom were left far behind on the face of incomplete returns. Figures from the ninth district indicated Representative Bell had defeated his opponent, John M. Johnson, republican, by a good majority.

Considerable interest throughout the state was attached to the race for sheriff in Bibb county, where James R. Hicks, Jr., the incumbent, was opposed by Carlton C. Jones, independent. Sheriff Hicks, the democratic nominee, rallied his party behind him and defeated his opponent by approximately 1,500 votes. With two small precincts unreported, the vote stood, Hicks 3,208, Jones 1,731.

In Chatham, of which Savannah is the county seat, the democratic candidates for the legislature were elected by big majorities over their republican opponents.

Coolidge Wins Fannin.

Henry M. Stanley, republican, was elected to the legislature from Fannin county by a majority of 300 votes. The entire republican ticket in the county was elected. Fannin, while going for President Coolidge, voted for Representative Bell, democrat, for congress.

Savannah reported the commission form of government proposal defeated the face of virtually complete returns.

State House Officials.

The following state house officials were elected: S. G. McLenon, secretary of state; William A. Wright, comptroller-general; George M. Napier, attorney-general; W. J. Speer, treasurer; Fort E. Land, superintendent of schools; John W. Clark, pension commissioner; T. E. Patterson, prison commissioner; J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture; H. M. Stanley, commissioner of commerce and labor; O. R. Bennett and J. D. Price, public service commissioners; Samuel C. Atkinson and S. Price Gilbert, associate justices of the supreme court; Nash R. Broyles and W. Frank Jenkins, judges of the court of appeals.

Circuit Judges.

The following are the circuit court judges elected: J. P. Knight, Alapaha circuit; W. V. Custer, Albany circuit; G. H. Howard and E. D. Thomas, Atlanta circuit; D. W. Blair, Blue Ridge circuit; C. F. McLaughlin, Chattahoochee circuit; C. E. Roper, Cherokee circuit; C. E. Roper, Coweta circuit; R. E. Camp, Dublin circuit; P. W. Meltrim, Eastern circuit; G. O. Persons, Flint circuit; W. L. Littlejohn, Southwestern circuit; John B. Hutcheson, Stone Mountain circuit; R. E. Tifton circuit; C. J. Perryman, Toombs circuit.

Solicitors General.

The following solicitors general were elected: H. C. Morgan, Alapaha circuit; B. C. Gardner, Albany circuit; John A. Boykin, Atlanta circuit; George Hains, Augusta circuit; John S. Wood, Blue Ridge circuit; W. B. Gibbs, Brunswick circuit; W. H. Flournoy, Chattahoochee circuit; C. C. Pittman, Cherokee circuit; W. Y. Atkinson, Coweta circuit; Fred Kea, Dublin circuit; W. C. Hartridge, Eastern circuit; F. B. Willingham, Flint circuit; E. M. Owen, Griffin circuit; W. F. Grey, Middle circuit; A. S.

COOLIDGE-DAWES WIN BY LANDSLIDE

lack only the formality of being "sworn in" to become the first woman governor of any state in the union. Her republican opponent declines to concede her election but she had rolled up an apparently safe majority by midnight.

Kansas Gets K. K. K. Governor.

In Kansas the spectacular editor of The Emporia Gazette ran third in a three-cornered race for the governorship. Ben S. Paulen was elected over the present democratic governor, Jonathan M. Davis. Paulen was reputed to be the candidate of the Ku Klux Klan.

In Idaho Senator Borah won over his opponent in easy fashion, his victory being conceded shortly after the returns began to come in.

Iowa, branded as a most uncertain state before election, showed little uncertainty in rolling up a big Coolidge majority. La Follette headquarters conceded the state to Coolidge before one-third of the returns were in.

Democrats Wait Last Vote.

The only candidate Clem L. Shaver, democratic national chairman, would offer on the apparent Coolidge-Dawes victory was this:

"Remember 1916."

Chairman Butler, of the republican national committee, contented himself with saying:

"I told you so."

Neither President Coolidge, Mr. Davis nor Senator La Follette would make any comment on the outcome of the election.

REPUBLICANS GAIN POWER IN CONGRESS.

New York, November 4.—Republicans will continue to hold a majority in the next congress, according to returns which had been received at 10:30 from all but the states of the far west.

It is still possible that the La Follette bloc will have the balance of power, but any prospect of the democrats gaining ascendancy in either the senate or the house seems to have vanished, unless late returns from the west provide an upset.

The figures available at this hour threaten to diminish La Follette's strength in congress. The republican senatorial strength was enlarged when returns indicated the election of Jesse Metcalfe in Rhode Island and Coleman Dupont in Delaware.

The republicans seem assured of at least one new seat in the senate by Speaker Gillett's victory over Walsh in Massachusetts.

They also apparently have maintained ten seats they already hold in Delaware, Rhode Island, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, New Jersey and New Hampshire. The democrats are assured of eight seats they already hold in the south, but they have registered no gains. Included in the democratic southern seats is Senator Morris Sheppard, who apparently has been re-elected in Texas.

Officer Is Kicked Through Windshield In Making Arrest

"He's got a powerful kick," said Motorcycle Officer H. P. Higgins, in commenting on his precipitate trip through the windshield of an automobile when the driver of the car resorted to footwork in an effort to resist arrest.

Late Tuesday afternoon, when Officers Higgins and M. L. Rivers sighted an automobile crisscrossing the curves and corners in Grant Park, at a speed somewhat higher than the law allows, they say, the officers started in pursuit. Upon overtaking the machine, which was driven by F. L. Jackson, 28, of 213 Madison avenue, Officer Higgins jumped into the car to arrest the driver.

But Jackson decided he would offer some resistance and forthwith put his "dicks" into action, so to speak. After kicking the officer about considerably before he could gain his wits, Jackson sent one of his boys against the officer's body, hurling him through the windshield, over the radiator and onto the pavement. By the combined effort of the two officers, the driver was finally subdued and carried to police station. He was charged with speeding, operating an automobile while under the influence of whisky and disorderly conduct.

Officer Higgins received a few minor cuts in his fall, but was otherwise unharmed.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR WOOLLEY TODAY

Funeral services for Andrew C. Woolley, 68, widely-known Atlanta business man and president of A. C. Woolley and company, wholesale grain merchants, who died Tuesday at the residence, 139 Techwood drive, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the residence. Rev. J. B. Mitchell will officiate, and interment will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Woolley's death was sudden and came as a shock to his relatives and friends. He was at his desk Monday, but complained of not feeling well Monday night. Members of his family found him dead in his bed Tuesday morning.

Mr. Woolley had been a resident of Atlanta 33 years, coming here from Selma, Ala. He resided for many years at Courtland street and Merritts avenue. He was born in Perry county, Ala., and was reared and educated in Selma.

Mr. Woolley was a steward in St. Mark's Methodist church and was active in church affairs. He also was a member of Gate City lodge No. 2, F. & A. M.

Surviving him are two daughters, Misses Virginia and Frances Woolley, of Atlanta, and two sons, J. Albert Woolley, of Los Angeles, Cal., and A. Price Woolley, of Atlanta.

BROOKHART LAGS IN RACE TO HOLD SEAT IN SENATE

Des Moines, Ia., November 4.—The close race for the senate between Senator Smith W. Brookhart, republican, and Daniel F. Steck, democrat, claimed chief interest in election returns early this morning. Steck had been conceded to have the edge on virtually all other candidates, but Steck was leading Brookhart most of the time up to 1 a. m. and at that hour was running more than 6,000 votes ahead of the senator in returns from 1,007 precincts, nearly one-half of the total.

A large part of the Steck strength was shown in the city returns. Brookhart followers said the farm vote would reverse the showing of their candidate.

Coolidge, early this morning, still was ahead of La Follette, his nearest opponent.

OCTOBER CHECKS ISSUED TEACHERS THREE DAYS LATE

Following a delay of three days, all Atlanta school teachers and employees of the school department Tuesday received October pay checks, which were due last Saturday. The checks were issued after Atlanta clearing house banks had accepted the city's note for $350,000 payable January 1, 1925. Only half of the money has been received, however, as the remainder will be used for payment of the November payroll due December 1.

Receipt of the loan was delayed because of the absence of Mayor Walter A. Sims from the city. On his return Sunday the mayor expressed surprise at the hitch, stating that he understood that his signature was unnecessary.

BABY GIRL RECOVERS FROM AUTO INJURIES

Mary Crane, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Crane, of 681 West Peachtree street, is recovering from slight injuries she received Sunday when she was struck in front of her parents' home by an automobile driven by Dr. Henry M. McGhee. The child was carried to Davis-Fischer hospital and given a thorough examination, after which she was taken home.

Hoosier Club Meets.

The next regular meeting of the Hoosier club of Atlanta will be held tonight at the home of Mrs. Fred Sealing, 35 Penn avenue, instead of at the home of Mrs. N. T. Moore, on North boulevard, as had been announced. The change is due to the death of Mrs. Moore's father at his home in New Albany, Ind., and his funeral there, which Mrs. Moore is attending.

Educator Raps Teachers.

Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the University of Missouri, in addressing a district teachers' meeting in Maryland, Mo., paid his respects to a class of teachers whom he described as "bench warmers," "pussycats," "off-siders," "screach owls," "weed pullers," and "rabbit chasers," declaring that they did more harm than good in the modern educational system because they did not make themselves harmonious with the modern education plan.

When cheese gets hard do not throw it away. It is more digestible at this stage, so just grate it and serve it to those who cannot digest it in the ordinary form.

BIGGEST COUNTY FAIR OPENED IN HANCOCK

Sparta, Ga., November 4.—(Special)—The gates of the biggest Hancock county fair ever held, were thrown open this morning. The first day was designated as Children's day and every school child in the county was admitted free. City and county school children formed a line and marched from the courthouse to the fair grounds.

Club boys and girls also marched to the fair grounds in a body from the Sparta school building. Agricultural exhibits displayed in the new agricultural building are the best and most varied selection ever gathered together in this county. They consist of ten community exhibits from every village in the county. Several farmers have individual exhibits. All women's civic clubs in Sparta have displays of fancy work. The livestock exhibit is the best ever shown, with numbers of thoroughbred Jersey, Shorthorn and Guernsey cows. Many fine hogs and pigs are also on display. Hundreds of pure bred fowls are in the poultry exhibit, a large portion being by the Girls' Chicken club. The fowls will be sold at the fair and money put back in the "revolving fund" to purchase more baby chicks next spring. Midway attractions are numerous. S. D. Truitt, county agent and manager of the fair, is enthusiastic over the outlook for a successful week.

EVERYTHING READY FOR BIG CONTEST OF OLD FIDDLERS

Everything is ready for the big fiddlers' convention which will take place at the auditorium Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday morning, according to announcement Tuesday by Virgil Shepard, general manager.

The program this year will include several new acts never presented in connection with the Old Time Georgia Fiddlers' convention, which has become an established institution in Atlanta.

Many new faces will be seen and a lot of "new stuff" will be presented. Many of the old favorites of previous conventions will again vie with each other for popular favor. Among the entertainers who will appear this year are "Fiddlin' John" Carson, "Laughing Gid" Tanner, "High Pockets" Johnson, Jew's-harp virtuoso, the Caterwauling quartet, which will come with a delegation of dancers who appeared at Mountain City during the summer, "One Gallus Jenkins, the 'bull fiddle boy,'" "Stringbeans" Snellgrove, the world's worst fiddler, and two score singers and dancers who will appear in a "break-down dance."

MULE DIES OF RABIES

21 Dogs Confined To Prevent Disease Spread

Americus, Ga., November 4.—(Special)—Following the death of a fine farm mule belonging to Dan Chappell as a result of an attack of rabies, no less than 21 dogs are being confined by their owners in kennels in Thalesia school community. All of the dogs confined are known to have been attacked by a mad dog belonging to Chappell's mule.

Twenty-five days after being attacked, although the wound made was not discernible at the time, Chappell's mule died in great agony. Dr. Thalesia is a thickly-settled community, with many children attending the consolidated school there, a movement has been started to have all of the dogs attacked by Hall's dog killed.

AMERICUS KIWANIANS WILL LUNCH AT FAIR

Americus, Ga., November 4.—(Special)—The Kiwanis club of Americus, following its usual custom, will lunch this week on the grounds of the Sumter County Fair association here. A program of unusual interest to farmers will be arranged, and every Kiwanian will have as his guest some person engaged in agricultural pursuit. It is expected that more than 100 will attend the luncheon.

MRS. HARDING BETTER, PHYSICIAN REPORTS

Marion, Ohio, November 4.—(By the Associated Press).—Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, widow of President Harding, who has been seriously ill for the last two weeks, was better today, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, her physician, said in a statement issued this morning. Mrs. Harding had a fairly good night's rest and ate a hearty breakfast, Dr. Sawyer said. His statement follows:

"The condition of Mrs. Warren G. Harding, widow of President Warren G. Harding, was somewhat better this morning. She ate a hearty breakfast and had a fairly good night's rest. She was restless until about 1 a. m. and then went to sleep and had a very where from three to five hours' sleep."

Edgewood Avenue Is Famous Street, Mail Incident Shows

Broadway, the far-famed street of many lights and broken hearts, may be known from one end of the country to the other, and Edgewood avenue, right here in Atlanta, is also by no means unknown. This is established by the fact that a letter mailed in Buenos Aires recently and addressed to A. Montgomery, 400 Edgewood avenue, U. S. A., has successfully completed its journey and is now in the hands of the person to whom it was addressed.

No mention was made of the city in which Edgewood avenue might be located. On the envelope was stamped "Deficiency in address supplied by New York postoffice," but Mr. Montgomery is somewhat puzzled as to the manner in which the correct Edgewood avenue was obtained. Under the stamp of the New York postoffice was written in red ink, "Atlanta, Georgia."

The letter thus appears to have reached New York and to have gotten into the hands of someone who knew about the Atlanta street. At any rate, it goes to show that Atlanta and its streets are known the nation over.

Mr. Montgomery, to whom the letter was addressed, is connected with the Coca-Cola company.

FOUR SLAYERS FREED Granted Clemency on Election Day

Election day was welcomed by others than voters when Governor Clifford Walker approved the paroling of four convicts on recommendation from the prison board. Bellman Lamont, convicted of murder in Chatham county in 1906, and after having served 18 years of a life sentence, was paroled by the chief executive.

Frank Wade, who was convicted for murder in 1901 which he was alleged to have been committed in Mitchell county, has served 23 years of a life term in Muscogee county. He was given parole by the governor.

John McKinley, also charged with murder in Meriwether county, and was sentenced in 1900 for life imprisonment, was the third convict to be paroled.

Robert Gregory, who was charged with manslaughter by a Burke county jury, has served between 15 and 20 years, and was the fourth convict to receive a parole.

Hearing Music in New York The Season Opens

BY MARGUERITE BARTHOLOMEW

The New York musical season seems invariably to open with the widely heralded return of some eminent celebrity, purported to have spent grueling years in retirement gathering momentum for further triumph upon the concert stage.

Two years ago Paderewski's premiere was the epochal event of the season. Last year the veteran De Pachmann emerged from seclusion and the extravagant claims of the press lured egotistical and skeptical alike to ascertain the validity of his pianistic pretensions.

And this fall the name of Alma Gluck stirred memories of a lovely, lissom brunette, who in the heyday of her popularity some 12 years since, sang her way into the hearts of a continent. Who does not remember the rare charm of her personality, the rich, vibrant appeal of her dusky mezzo voice, the joyous outpouring of an artistic nature singularly attuned to the varying realities of human experience?

That a career of such possibility and promise should have been so abruptly terminated seemed the perverse ruling of a cruel and unjust fate.

And because musiclovers, from the humblest to the most discriminating, would thrill to welcome the return of Alma Gluck—"in the old likeness that we knew," the announcement of her reappearance on October 12 after four years' retirement filled the Manhattan Opera house with throngs of eager devotees.

In pensive disillusionment we ponder the query: "What profiteth an artist pecuniary gain, if she betray thereby the credulity and confidence of a loving public?"

Challapin's Appearance. On Sunday night, October 13, Feodor Chaliapin entertained his countless friends and admirers at the Manhattan Opera house. Nothing in the annals of the song recital can approximate the breezy unconventionality of this annual event! The spacious opera house literally swarms with auditors! Stands in the solid phalanx skirt the parquet and the balconies, they preempt the stage, the orchestra pit overflows with them and hundreds are rudely repulsed by burly policemen at the doors!

The audience is heterogeneous—exhilarating! Little Russia is present in overwhelming numbers and many flaunt splashes of sedition and red. They evince a frenzied enthusiasm for their great patriot, he is the idol of the proletariat!

Finally he strides out upon the stage amid deafening acclamations, a physical superman, who towers in superb and conscious strength above his fellows. He acknowledges his welcome with evident appreciation, and says: "I am glad to see you again!"

He then opens the little songbook containing translations of his repertoire—101 selections in all—and he barks forth each number in guttural Russian accent.

Occasionally he outwits his unsuspecting auditors. With grave solemnity he calls out: "One hundred and four—r-r-r," a wild rattle of turning looses ensues and chagrined the fire assemblage looks to the stage to find the irrepressible baritone chuckling gleefully over his mischievous prank.

The dramatic intensity of his style is compelling. With the same finesse

Watson Plantation Is Sold at Auction For Sum of $16,000

Thomson, Ga., November 4.—The handsome colonial residence of the late Senator Thomas E. Watson, together with 171 acres of land, was sold here this morning to J. E. Wilkinson, local capitalist, for the sum of $16,000. The bidding started at $5,000 and was run up to that figure. The other bidder was H. T. Clary, also of Thomson.

The Watson library, containing around 10,000 volumes, covering a wide range of subjects, was sold to U. D. Thompson, of Miami, Fla., for the sum of $5,100. Mercer university representatives, who attended to have recently inspected the library with the idea of purchasing it for that institution, made no effort to secure the library at the sale, it was said.

Old pieces of furniture in the Watson home were sold to various individuals. A large number of people from all parts of this and other states attended the sale.

MAY SUE DEPUTY Lawyer Claims He Was Locked in Jail

Vigorous prosecution and court action was declared Tuesday night by Attorney Vester M. Ownby, with offices at 308 Gould building, to be under contemplation as a result of his being held in jail Tuesday for ten minutes while court attaches conferred as to whether or not he should be forced to furnish bond after having been placed in custody on a charge which Ownby declared to be "ridiculous."

Ownby, according to his story, was talking to a client at the Fulton tower Tuesday afternoon when a deputy sheriff accused him of tearing a hole in the fine screen separating those within and without the jail. The hole had been in the screen for several months, Ownby alleges, and his arrest was only for the satisfaction of some personal grudge.

Ownby admitted passing some paper through the tear in the screen but declared that it was only a note to a client. This was a regular practice of lawyers, he said. While he was held in jail only ten minutes, Ownby declared Tuesday he had a clear case of false arrest and would decide in the next few days whether or not he would take action.

COOPERATIVE BODY OF GEORGIA BUYING BIG PEANUT CROP

Albany, Ga., November 4.—(Special)—The Georgia Peanut Growers' Co-operative association, a farmers' marketing organization, with headquarters here, is in the midst of the heaviest delivery season the organization has ever known, officers said today. Authorities are crediting the association with playing an important part in keeping the price of white Spanish peanuts to the present level.

Although the peanut market in south Georgia opened at around $120 a ton in September, government reports showed a heavy increase in production this year, and the price was sent tumbling down as low as $85 to $70 a ton in many places, and in a few places buyers withdrew entirely from the market. To some extent, there would be a price reaction when the "jumping" season, caused by the heavy selling of non-members, ended.

The association has continued from the first to advance its members $85 a ton as a first payment. This initial advance is more than the outright price to some extent.

Confidence that the association would be able to "merchandise" the crop by a system of orderly selling has caused growers to show an actual eagerness to deliver, according to association officials. Not only are members delivering their own peanuts, but some of them are buying for delivery to the association.

As a result of heavy deliveries to the association, it is said, the trade feels that the volume of peanuts the association has withdrawn from the market is having a stabilizing influence, and that an upward reaction may be expected by the end of the year. One large Chicago brokerage house, which is among the heaviest buyers of shelled peanuts in the entire country, in a recent letter gave the association's deliveries credit for ending the downward trend of the market.

Millions Paid to Hunt. During one season sportsmen in the United States pay on an average about $5,000,000 for hunting permits and licenses of all kinds. This money is used by the various states to establish game preserves, pay for wardens and generally to reduce taxation.

TECH TO ASK BIDS ON NEW BUILDING

Construction work on the addition is expected to begin around December 1, and it is planned for the new department to open next fall. Funds for this addition were raised as the result of the "Greater Georgia Tech" campaign.

CAVALRY OF FENG ENTERS TIENSIN

Tientsin, China, November 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The cavalry of General Feng Yu-hsiang, "Christian general," now in control of Peking, entered this city at noon today after quelling slight resistance.

Feng's troops first occupied the central station, then proceeded to the east station within the foreign settlement to disarm trains containing soldiers of the army of Wu Pei-fu, deposed commander of the Peking government's troops. A fusillade was fired at Feng's soldiers but the firing ceased on the orders of the Chinese general.

Tuan Chi-jui, former premier and Anfu leader, has telegraphed to the Yangtze provinces asking the authorities not to permit Wu to land there should he attempt to do so.

Messages from Tientsin last night declared that Feng's eighth mixed brigade had occupied the Tientsin central station yesterday afternoon and that General Wu Pei-fu, ousted field marshal of the Peking government's army, had left yesterday morning for Tangku, from where he sailed on the steamer Chongling for an unknown destination.

TIENSIN PEACEFUL. WU TROOPS MAY SWITCH.

Tientsin, November 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Tientsin was quiet today after a peaceful night, the troops giving no trouble.

The east station still is crowded with the soldiers of Wu Pei-fu, deposed Peking war lord, who has fled from this part of China. Some of these troops are armed, others are unarmed.

The soldiers of General Feng Yu-hsiang, whose coup ousted Wu Pei-fu from power, have not occupied the station, though they are reported all around it.

It is not clear exactly what is happening, but apparently representatives of Tuan Chi-jui, a former premier, are negotiating with the soldiers to transfer their allegiance and are not disarming those who agree.

It is stated that Wu, before leaving here, instructed his troops to take orders from none but Tuan Chi-jui. Tuan also has sent delegates to Tangku, the nearest gulf port, to endeavor to pacify the soldiers there.

Although the soldiers at Tientsin appear restive, there is no sign of any desire to renew the struggle, and many express a wish to be sent back to their native localities.

CHILDREN ELECT DAVIS AS MAYOR OF MOOSEHEART

Mooseheart, Ill., November 4.—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis was elected mayor of Mooseheart today, more than 1,200 children of all ages participating in the voting. Mr. Davis, the founder of the Moose children's city, is the first to be honored with election to this office.

The vote was practically unanimous, the few votes the secretary did not receive going to Mrs. Davis. As each child voted, Superintendent M. A. Adams required that he or she take a pledge never to miss voting at any election.

PIONEER CHICAGOAN DIES AT AGE OF 76

Chicago, November 4.—Ferdinand W. Peck, pioneer Chicagoan, died at the Henrotin hospital late today. Mr. Peck, who was born here July 15, 1848, for years was known as the oldest native of Chicago. He is credited with having initiated in 1877 the building of the structure that houses the Auditorium theater, home of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

He was chairman of the finance committee of the World's Columbian exposition in 1893 and was appointed by President McKinley to be United States commissioner general to the Paris exposition of 1900. He was one of the founders of the Illinois Humane society.

An eloquent address of welcome was delivered this evening by E. R. Billingsley, of Rome. The chief feature of the opening sessions was the presidential address delivered by Wright T. Monroe. District conferences directed by E. R. Quick, of Atlanta, will open the business session Wednesday. Many prominent churchmen from other states are in attendance. Sessions are presided over by Dr. John H. Wood, pastor of the First Christian church of Rome.

DAVIS ALSO DECLINES.

New York, November 4.—John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, who received the returns with a few intimate friends at the home of Frank L. Polk in this city, declined late tonight to make any statement on the election. Clem L. Shaver, democratic national chairman, also refused to comment.

LA FOLLETTE IS SILENT.

Madison, Wis., November 4.—Senator La Follette will make no comment on the election tonight, he told newspapermen shortly after 10 o'clock. At the state capitol, where he received the election returns by special wire, Senator La Follette indicated to friends that he would be unable to appraise the results on the basis of fragmentary returns.

He awaited each bulletin eagerly, smiling as the figures were read and remarking from time to time, to a small circle of friends, on the significance he attached to the reports. He would have nothing for publication, however, he said, until the returns might be studied.

LANDSLIDE, NELSON SAYS.

Chicago, November 4.—John M. Nelson, national campaign manager for Senator La Follette, tonight issued the following statement: "Early returns indicate a landslide for Coolidge. We still have hopes, however, of carrying some of the western states."

KENTUCKY FOR COOLIDGE.

Washington, November 4.—Senator Ernst, republican, Kentucky, late tonight telegraphed C. Bascom Slemm, secretary to President Coolidge, that Kentucky appeared safe for Mr. Coolidge and that "everything pointed" to the election of the republican candidate for senator.

SEES DEMOCRATIC SENATOR.

St. Louis, Mo., November 4.—L. N. Crill, democratic state chairman, at 11 p. m. conceded that President Coolidge had carried South Dakota "by a safe margin." He predicted that U. S. G. Cherry, democratic candidate for United States senator, would carry the state by 5,000 over Governor W. H. McMaster, republican.

COOLIDGE BY 100,000.

San Francisco, November 4.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover, in a statement to the Associated Press late tonight, said Coolidge had been elected "to a certainty," and that he would carry California by more than 100,000 votes.

NORRIS IS REELECTED.

Omaha, November 4.—J. J. Thomas, democratic candidate for United States senator, conceded his defeat by Senator George W. Norris, republican, when 195 of the state's 194 precincts had reported a vote which showed: Norris 26,731, Thomas 15,748.

TAFT CALLS ON COOLIDGE.

Washington, November 4.—Chief Justice Taft called at the executive offices of the white house late tonight to extend his congratulations to President Coolidge. The latter, upon learning of the election of Mr. Taft, invited him to the executive mansion where he and Mrs. Coolidge were receiving the election results. Until late in the night, C. Bascom Slemm, secretary to the president, remained at his desk in the executive office, receiving messages by telephone and telegraph.

BOND ISSUE BEATEN.

Louisville, November 4.—The proposed $75,000,000 state bond and school bond issue apparently was defeated on the face of returns from 2,544 of the 3,971 precincts in Kentucky. The vote: For 161,700, against 286,225. The mountain districts, known proponents of the issue, are still to report.

YEGGS BURN LOCKS FROM SAFE DOORS AND ABANDON LOOT

Elberton, Ga., November 4.—(Special.)—When Clerk A. B. Cleveland, of the Elberton postoffice, found everything in confusion and the outer doors to both vaults blown open, when he entered the office early this morning. Combination locks were burned out with an acetylene torch. In one of the vaults the money was on hand and some valuable mail was intact. Two gas tanks, a large canvas, a couple of jimmies, a coil of rope, and other paraphernalia indicated that the yeggs were frightened off before completing the job. A safe on the outside, containing registered and insured packages, was undisturbed. Cleveland gave the alarm, but no clue as to the identity of the would-be robbers has been found. Inspectors from Atlanta arrived during the afternoon to investigate. So far, Postmaster Nick Oglesby has found nothing missing.

EMIR'S WIVES VEIL TO ATTEND MOVIES

London, November 4.—The Emir of Kassim, who governs a district of Nigeria, many times larger than England, attended a moving picture show the other night in London for the first time in his life.

The emir was enthusiastic about the movies. He was accompanied by his two favorite wives, who remained closely veiled throughout the performance. Upon their arrival at the theater the wives were escorted into the manager's office to wait until the lights went down so that they should not be seen by vulgar eyes.

PNEUMONIC PLAGUE CONTROLLED, BELIEF

Los Angeles, November 4.—Prompt control of the epidemic of pneumonic plague, which has claimed 25 lives in the Mexican colony here since October 19, was predicted tonight by Dr. W. M. Dickie, secretary of the board of health and director of the anti-plague committee. No deaths were reported today and only one new case was admitted to the general hospital. "There is no reason for public alarm," Dr. Dickie said.

New Orleans, November 5.—Henry Agate, vice president and traveling representative of a New York jewelry concern, reported to police shortly after midnight that gems valued at approximately $200,000 had been stolen from his room in a local hotel.

Police said it probably was the largest theft of the kind ever reported in the south. The police are searching for Roy Dickerson, escaped convict from Alabama, who participated in a $30,000 jewelry robbery in the same hotel late in 1922.

A man whose description tallied with that of Dickerson was seen to leave the hotel shortly before the robbery was discovered.

PROHIBITORS GET FOUR STILL AND MUCH LIQUOR

Prohibition agents destroyed a nest of stills in Guinness county Monday afternoon. Four illicit plants, 61 gallons of liquor and 5,000 gallons of beer mash were destroyed within a radius of two miles in Harbin district, according to reports made to Director Fred D. Dismuke Tuesday morning upon the agents' return to Atlanta.

Agents Sowell, Adair and Goode reported that they were operating under information to the effect that much distilling was being done in Harbin district. The information proved to be correct. The four stills were of large capacity, the officers said, but there were no operators on the grounds when the officers arrived.

Where officers operating in Clayton county found a large still in full operation and arrested T. T. McKinney and B. H. Carter, both of whom were held for the federal grand jury under bonds of $500 by United States Commissioner Joe Abbott.

APPROVE PROGRAM ON TRANSPORTATION

Unanimous ratification of the transportation program, adopted at the regional conference of the Associated Traffic Clubs of America, was the principal business at the regular semi-monthly luncheon of the Atlanta club, held at the new Robert Fulton hotel this week. The program embodies a policy of "hands off the transportation act."

The luncheons were resumed Monday after a departure from the regular schedule because of the recent convention of associated clubs. At the meeting Monday, which was presided over by President J. W. White, several letters from traffic clubs throughout America were read. These letters gave eloquent tribute to Atlanta's hospitality. The Stone Mountain Confederate memorial also was praised.

MISS BARKER TELLS OF LIBRARY SYSTEM

Miss Tommie Dora Barker spoke on Atlanta's library system at the luncheon Tuesday of the Atlanta club. She explained the various services rendered by the library. The musical program consisted of songs by the Georgia Tech Tin Can Trio. Roy A. Woodbury, chairman of the Atlanta committee, presided, and awarded a number of attendance prizes. As many members of the Atlanta club are working the community chest campaign, it was decided to omit the luncheon scheduled for next week. W. G. Grant and W. Harry Parker will have charge of the luncheon November 13.

HICKS IS ELECTED IN BIBB COUNTY

Macon, Ga., November 4.—(Special.)—James R. Hicks, Jr., was re-elected sheriff of Bibb county in today's election by a majority of nearly 1,500 over Carlton C. Jones, his last-minute opponent. Jones was credited with having the support of the Ku Klux Klan.

All of the Jones votes were counted, it was announced by election managers in all precincts. With two precincts missing, small precincts with a little more than 100 votes, Hicks' total vote was 3,208, while Jones received 1,731. This gave Hicks an overwhelming majority in Bibb county.

The Hicks faction, several hundred strong, staged a parade as soon as it became definitely known that Hicks had won. At that hour, Jones was forced to concede the election to Hicks.

One of the surprises of the election was the strength shown here by Coolidge. In the fashionable Vineville district, the only one that at midnight had reported the count on the presidential ticket, Coolidge had 191 votes, La Follette 14 and Davis 907. The same Vineville precinct showed that the amendments carried 673 to 289, which would indicate that all amendments were carried in this county. It will be hours before other precincts complete the count.

PRINTERS' NEWSPAPER STOPS PUBLICATION

Walla Walla, Wash., November 4.—The Walla Walla Times, a daily newspaper published by union printers and supported financially by the International Typographical union and by union printers of the northwest, discontinued publication yesterday. The paper was started October 2, 1922.

L. R. Buzan and E. J. Pelkey, northwest representatives of the International Typographical union, when in Walla Walla on September 11, stated that the paper had lost $84,000.

A break took place April 10, 1922, between the union printers of Walla Walla and the Walla Walla Union and the Walla Walla Bulletin over what the newspapers declared was an unreasonable contract demanded by the printers' organization.

The discontinuance of the Times was made without any concessions on the part of the Union or the Bulletin, and both papers will continue to be operated on an open-shop basis, their publishers said.

'Remember 1916' Say Democrats, Still Hopeful

Washington, Nov. 4.—"Remember 1916," declared a statement given out at national democratic headquarters at 10:05 p. m. here tonight, refusing to follow the lead of New York democratic papers in conceding the election of President Coolidge.

The statement said: "The fact that certain eastern newspapers have already conceded the election of the republican national ticket perhaps may be based on an exaggerated idea of the influence of the vote in the eastern and New England states. We at the national democratic headquarters await confidently the delayed vote of the western and border states. Remember 1916."

WASHINGTON DOCTORS ADOPT SCALE OF FEES

Washington, November 4.—A scale of minimum and maximum fees for almost every ill that a physician or surgeon is ever called upon to treat has been fixed by the Medical Society of the District of Columbia. Minimum fees range from $2 for a minor office consultation or a word of advice over the telephone, to $300 for certain major operations. Maximum fees for similar service range from $10 to $5,000.

Charity work is permitted, but no other deviations from the scale, which is to allow persons of moderate means the best medical skill at a cost within their reach.

DAWES-COOLIDGE WIN DAWES' "HOME" PRECINCT EASILY

Evansville, Ill., November 4.—Charles G. Dawes and his republican running mate, Calvin Coolidge, carried his home precinct here by an overwhelming majority. The vote was: Coolidge, 593; Davis, 54; La Follette, 28. All but three persons registered in the precinct voted.

LA FOLLETTE MEN TO KEEP UP FIGHT

Madison, Wis., November 4.—The first evidence of a Coolidge landslide failed to dishearten Senator Robert M. La Follette tonight as he sat in Governor John J. Blaine's office.

The senator chatted with friends and paid little attention to the returns as they came in over a special wire in an adjoining room. He showed no lack of cheerfulness in the face of defeat and even the possibility of a close race in his home state.

"One cannot be too optimistic about a new movement," La Follette said to a friend.

'Chicago, November 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Irrespective of the result of today's election, the independent party headed by Senator Robert M. La Follette will be kept intact and will enter the next political fight in 1926 and the presidential race in 1928, John M. Nelson, La Follette campaign manager, announced tonight.

The headquarters of the organization will be moved to Washington and an effort will be made to strengthen the movement while all La Follette-Wheeler leaders throughout the country will be instructed to preserve their records intact and continue working in lining up the organization, Mr. Nelson said. ### COOLIDGE CARRIES HARDING'S PRECINCT.

Marion, Ohio.—President Coolidge carried the home precinct of the late President Warren G. Harding by a bigger vote than Mr. Harding did four years ago. That precinct—precinct "G" of the fourth ward—gave Coolidge, 154; Davis, 61, and La Follette, 13. Four years ago it gave Harding 145 and Cox 119.

Mr. Lipstine's withdrawal from the company, of which his has been the original guiding hand, makes necessary a reorganization, both of finances and personnel.

Reds Marked 24 for Death As Sacrifice for May Day

(This is the eighth installment of a series of articles in which Jacob Spolansky, former agent of the department of justice, reveals discoveries he made concerning activities of communists in the United States.)

CHAPTER XIV. BY JACOB SPOLANSKY.

May 1, 1919, was marked by communists throughout the world as a day of celebration and rejoicing. It was the anniversary of the communist international and by official proclamation from Moscow the day was designated "free Russia."

The central executive committee of the communist international sent out orders by code wire from Moscow to the effect that on May 1 every loyal comrade should spend his hours in thankfulness for the results which communism already had attained, and in demonstrating in some fitting manner which would "call to the minds of the world the tyranny of the capitalist class and to show the world that the power of communism is great."

"General Strike" Fizzles.

In the United States, it was decided at a meeting of the central executive committee of the united communist party of America that the most fitting celebration of the communist anniversary would be the calling of a general strike. Let workmen all over the country, in every branch of industry, lay down their tools on that day and demonstrate the power of the worker! And this word was sent out by secret underground channels—that in all lines of industry a strike should be called.

That these orders for the "celebration" did arrive was evidenced by the results which followed in New York, Boston and Cleveland. Serious rioting occurred, there was some little bloodshed and many arrests were made. But due to advance information of the communist plans received by the government from their undercover men, a general strike was prevented.

Internal Machines Dispatched.

Another sort of celebration also had been set for that day. The communist-anarchists, not being wholly in favor of the general strike idea, decided that their power would best be proved by a wholesale slaughter of public officials. Meeting in a little New York hall on the west side of Chicago this plan was first discussed. This was followed by later meetings in New York and Camden, N. J., where it was decided to send out 24 death-dealing internal machines which should destroy 24 of the country's most prominent men.

The list of those to whom these bombs were sent has not, I believe, ever been made public. There was much speculation and rumor as to the identity of the men marked for death by the anarchists, but no official announcement ever was made. Here is the list of persons to whom the "celebration packages" had been mailed.

Anthony Caminetti, then commissioner of immigration.

Frederick C. Howe, immigration commissioner at Ellis Island.

United States Senators Lee S. Overman, William King, Reed Smoot and Thomas W. Hardick.

United States Representative John L. Burnett.

United States District Judge K. M. Landis, of Chicago.

Assistant United States Attorney General Frank K. Nebeker.

United States Attorneys Charles Eickert and Edward Cuhna, of San Francisco.

John F. Hyland, mayor of New York.

Richard W. Enright, police commissioner of New York.

W. Finch, special agent, department of justice.

Ole Hanson, mayor of Seattle.

W. C. Sproul, governor of Pennsylvania.

W. J. Schaffer, attorney general of Pennsylvania.

John D. Rockefeller.

P. P. Morgan.

W. M. Wood, president American Wool company, Boston.

T. Larry Dyer, state senator of Pennsylvania.

T. G. Bilbo, governor of Mississippi.

W. A. Scott, mayor of Jackson, Miss.

citement attendant on the raid died over when there were orders signaling over the cable from Moscow directing the communist party in the United States to make a campaign in the United States—this was the government to be more difficult for the government to deal with than the one which was "wiped out."

These orders sent by secret code to communist headquarters in New York and Chicago, directed the formation of a new organization. An organization which, outwardly at least, should conform to all the laws of the United States. An organization which should still stand for the spread of communist principles, but the program and constitution of which should not include as its aim the overthrow of the United States government. These orders also directed that the old organization complete with its purpose of destroying the government, continue to function, but that its operations be limited strictly to work "underground."

Thus, where before operations all had been conducted in the open, where every move was seen, now this same organization was to continue in the open, but in addition a new party was formed, outwardly legal, and conforming to all laws, but using this legality as a cloak to hide the true purpose of its leaders—the purpose which remained the same—the overthrow of the United States government by force.

CHAPTER XV.
The blow dealt by the government through its raids was not one which could be too easily overcome by communists. It was a blow which was felt in the open, at which, at much less expense, their orators could demand vocally the "support of the masses." Of sufficient force to be broadcast documents smuggled into central points of distribution.

Propaganda by Publications.
After the drive against all radicals by the government in 1919, however, the importance of printed matter containing revolutionary teachings was recognized by both the communist leaders and the government. It is of sufficient grounds for deportation for any one who is found with such a publication in his possession, it being taken as prima facie evidence of his connection with the conspiracy against the United States government.

These publications are backed by millions of dollars—which are collected for that purpose both in the United States and by subscription from Moscow. Not long ago an entire building was purchased by the communist party of America on West Washington street in Chicago. This was accomplished, it has been learned, through the financial aid of the communist international in Russia. Here most equipment has been installed, and it is the plan of American communists that from this office shall be turned out yearly millions of pieces of propaganda, to be sent broadcast through the country, carrying the message of revolution to those workers who have not yet been reached.

Of course, following orders from the communist international, a great deal of communist work is being done legally and in the open. Thousands of pieces of literature are printed and distributed, and the government is preaching the overthrow of the government by force, and are therefore legal. Yet, if this "legal" propaganda were not augmented by underground efforts through which the real purpose of communism could be taught, communism as a principle and as a vital force would fall utterly. It is upon these secret publications that red leaders rely to add to their lists of "converts."

Report of All Activities.
The main organ of the communist party is the Communist.

Printed in twenty-five languages, this publication carries weekly all news of communist activities throughout the world. In it are to be found the latest orders from the international at Moscow, together with news of communist activities there. In addition, a full and complete report of all activities in the United States is given each week. Whenever there is a secret meeting or a convention, it is not necessary for members to attend; the minutes of the convention will appear in the next number of the Communist, along with the text of all important speeches. This magazine is the guide of the communist in America. By reading it he is able to say what he can or cannot do.

In the United States there are 260 communist publications printed in twenty-four languages, and more than 400 printed in English. In addition to these there are 200 publications printed in other languages in this country. And even this number does not include the thousands of books and magazines turned out yearly for propaganda purposes. In these publications twenty-four languages are represented.

Program of the Party.
Lest this new semi-political force thus created be misunderstood or its purpose be misconstrued, let us look upon it as "radical but harmless," here is the avowed program of the party which afterward was named the workers' party, given out from Moscow by the communist international:

"The legal political organ is to be a means enabling the communist party to function in open party struggle and to become the revolutionary party of the masses. It is to participate actively in all phases of the class struggle on a platform that will go far toward the communist program as is possible while continuing a legal political existence."

"The entire membership of the underground party, the real communist party, must join the open party and become its most active element. Communist party members must at all times hold the positions of leadership in the legal party."

"It follows from the above that the leadership and control of the legal political organ must be retained by the communist party of America. Hence the party membership must function in the legal political organ as a unit subject and responsible to the communist party."

"The program of the legal political organ is to have for its basis the general principle of the class struggle, with the establishment of the workers' republic as its final objective."

It was some time before the communists of America finally decided to carry out the decisions and orders from Moscow to proceed with the formation of the legal political party. Finally a peremptory demand that action be started arrived at communist headquarters in New York from the international. This document was received December 8, 1921—quite awhile after the original orders arrived suggesting the formation of this legal machinery—and was delivered by special messenger. It stated that the executive committee of the communist international was resolved to support the central executive committee of the communist party of America in favoring the immediate formation of a legal political party on a national scale "over the opposition of certain elements within the party which objected to such a procedure."

It was thought that by the formation of this party a powerful weapon would be given into the hands of American communists to combat other political forces in the United States. Through this legal activity, it was thought, would be gained for the communist party a strong which could not be obtained by purely underground methods.

All plans for this legal work were completed by communist leaders in Moscow. When these had been formed, directions were received here to call an underground convention of the communist party to make all final arrangements for the public convention at which the legal revolutionary party was to be launched. This underground convention was called for the summer of 1922—the date being fixed in Bridgman, Mich. In spite of the fact that the convention was raided by agents of the bureau of investigation, plans had been expected to succeed to such an extent that the purpose of the convention, in so far as communist plans were concerned, was accomplished. The public convention was held later in the fall of 1922, and thus was formed the workers' party of America.

Accepting instructions from the communist international in Moscow, various meetings were manipulated under several legal names such as the American labor alliance, the Workers' Council of America, and several language federations. Automatically members of the underground communist party became members of the new organization. Members of both parties take their orders from the same source.

Leadership of both lies in the same place—the executive committee of the international. Workers' party committee, district committee, national committee, are composed exclusively of leaders of the communist party, and the program of the legal party is identical with that of the communist party, with this certain modification—the workers party does not openly advocate the overthrow of the United States government by force.

It is under this camouflage of legality that communists now are concentrating their efforts in the United States. Through this means it is their purpose to place in all industries a sufficient number of communists eventually to obtain control. "Divide and conquer" is their slogan and it is upon this that they rest their hope of obtaining sufficient strength in labor organizations, and of gaining sufficient following in other organizations to bring about a social revolution.

Printed in twenty-five languages, this publication carries weekly all news of communist activities throughout the world. In it are to be found the latest orders from the international at Moscow, together with news of communist activities there. In addition, a full and complete report of all activities in the United States is given each week. Whenever there is a secret meeting or a convention, it is not necessary for members to attend; the minutes of the convention will appear in the next number of the Communist, along with the text of all important speeches. This magazine is the guide of the communist in America. By reading it he is able to say what he can or cannot do.

In the United States there are 260 communist publications printed in twenty-four languages, and more than 400 printed in English. In addition to these there are 200 publications printed in other languages in this country. And even this number does not include the thousands of books and magazines turned out yearly for propaganda purposes. In these publications twenty-four languages are represented.

Program of the Party.
Lest this new semi-political force thus created be misunderstood or its purpose be misconstrued, let us look upon it as "radical but harmless," here is the avowed program of the party which afterward was named the workers' party, given out from Moscow by the communist international:

"The legal political organ is to be a means enabling the communist party to function in open party struggle and to become the revolutionary party of the masses. It is to participate actively in all phases of the class struggle on a platform that will go far toward the communist program as is possible while continuing a legal political existence."

"The entire membership of the underground party, the real communist party, must join the open party and become its most active element. Communist party members must at all times hold the positions of leadership in the legal party."

"It follows from the above that the leadership and control of the legal political organ must be retained by the communist party of America. Hence the party membership must function in the legal political organ as a unit subject and responsible to the communist party."

"The program of the legal political organ is to have for its basis the general principle of the class struggle, with the establishment of the workers' republic as its final objective."

It was some time before the communists of America finally decided to carry out the decisions and orders from Moscow to proceed with the formation of the legal political party. Finally a peremptory demand that action be started arrived at communist headquarters in New York from the international. This document was received December 8, 1921—quite awhile after the original orders arrived suggesting the formation of this legal machinery—and was delivered by special messenger. It stated that the executive committee of the communist international was resolved to support the central executive committee of the communist party of America in favoring the immediate formation of a legal political party on a national scale "over the opposition of certain elements within the party which objected to such a procedure."

It was thought that by the formation of this party a powerful weapon would be given into the hands of American communists to combat other political forces in the United States. Through this legal activity, it was thought, would be gained for the communist party a strong which could not be obtained by purely underground methods.

All plans for this legal work were completed by communist leaders in Moscow. When these had been formed, directions were received here to call an underground convention of the communist party to make all final arrangements for the public convention at which the legal revolutionary party was to be launched. This underground convention was called for the summer of 1922—the date being fixed in Bridgman, Mich. In spite of the fact that the convention was raided by agents of the bureau of investigation, plans had been expected to succeed to such an extent that the purpose of the convention, in so far as communist plans were concerned, was accomplished. The public convention was held later in the fall of 1922, and thus was formed the workers' party of America.

Accepting instructions from the communist international in Moscow, various meetings were manipulated under several legal names such as the American labor alliance, the Workers' Council of America, and several language federations. Automatically members of the underground communist party became members of the new organization. Members of both parties take their orders from the same source.

BIG COMMITTEES VETOED BY MAYOR

Efforts to increase the number of members on six important councilmanic committees from five to 12 were halted Tuesday afternoon when Mayor Walter A. Sims vetoed an ordinance adopted by council Monday providing for increases in the police, fire, waterworks, sanitary affairs, hospitals and charities and parks committees.

The mayor declined to state reasons for his action, but said that he would make full explanations in a formal letter to council.

Efforts are expected to be made to override the veto, and sponsors of the measure claim that they can muster the necessary two-thirds vote. However, 12 members of council opposed the ordinance by their vote when it was passed Monday, and every other member of council would be forced to vote for the ordinance in order to override the mayor's veto.

The measure was passed only after a long and bitter fight. It was introduced two weeks ago by Councilman R. F. Pennington, and at that time a motion to place it on second reading was defeated by a few votes, automatically deferring action until Monday.

Following a long debate Monday, council passed the ordinance by a vote of 21 to 12.

The measure would increase the size of the six important committees to 12, and make it mandatory that each ward be directly represented on all of the committees named.

Thousands of workers, it can easily be seen that this danger, which has been generally looked upon as a national bugaboo, may quite possibly develop, with the spread of discontent and ill-feeling, into a real national danger.

Extending Communist Control.
During the last two years, as a logical connection with the foreign language radical papers, an organized attempt has been made by the communist party to add the foreign-language mutual benefit societies to the list of organizations under their control in the United States. This was accomplished, it has been learned, through the financial aid of the communist international in Russia. Here most equipment has been installed, and it is the plan of American communists that from this office shall be turned out yearly millions of pieces of propaganda, to be sent broadcast through the country, carrying the message of revolution to those workers who have not yet been reached.

Of course, following orders from the communist international, a great deal of communist work is being done legally and in the open. Thousands of pieces of literature are printed and distributed, and the government is preaching the overthrow of the government by force, and are therefore legal. Yet, if this "legal" propaganda were not augmented by underground efforts through which the real purpose of communism could be taught, communism as a principle and as a vital force would fall utterly. It is upon these secret publications that red leaders rely to add to their lists of "converts."

Report of All Activities.
The main organ of the communist party is the Communist.

Women Beat "Early Bird" To Polls, Timid No More

By ALICE ROHE.
New York, November 4.—When women vote they vote, not single file, but in battalions.

They were on the job Tuesday before the early bird had a chance to get his celebrated bird's eye view of the traditional woman.

One of the very first women to vote was a colored woman over on Fifty-second street. She was waiting at the polls at 5:30.

Throughout the city, captains and inspectors saw women voting pretty steadily from 6 a. m. on.

It was the second presidential election in which American women have voted. And what a change in their attitude toward the suffrage in these four years!

Walk In On Two Feet.

It is no longer the great adventure. All the nervousness and timidity which characterized a new experience is gone. Today all the "why women vote" jesting must be discarded. The most seasoned politicians, whose motto is, "A vote is a vote for a' that," even though woman's sphere is the home, say they never saw such a difference.

At 10 polling places in various parts of New York I saw one trait in common among all the women voters. They voted as unconcerned as men. Only once did I see a woman require assistance. She was a very old lady and she didn't quite understand all the preliminaries.

Few Bring Men Folk.

I saw only five women accompanied by their men folk.

As a general thing, women walked in alone, voted, went on their way, many of them to business. Others came in with women friends.

In the habit of the intelligentsia, namely, Greenwich Village, women spoke with authoritative calmness. In one electoral district 325 women outnumbered the 305 registered voting men. The first woman voter in this district arrived at 8 o'clock.

Nearby, in the Italian quarter, quite a change was noted. Of 444 registered voters, only 48 were women. "Italian women, even in America, believe their place is at home."

Store Run on Honor System.

Millard K. Dietz, a senior at Albright college, Myerstown, Pa., is earning his way through college with a candy store run on the honor system. The place of business is in the dormitory and the doors are left open day and night without any attendant being in charge. Students enter, help themselves to such candy as they want and ring up the amount of the purchase in the cash drawer or mark their name on a card in case they want to buy on credit. Of a hundred students who patronize the store not one has been found dishonest.

French and Belgian buyers appeared in numbers at the Leipzig fair this year for the first time since the war.

TRUCK HITS GIRL, CRUSHING SKULL

Struck down by a heavy truck as she was on her way home from school, Katherine Scott Wing, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wing, of 253 Winter avenue, Kirkwood, lingered near death after she was rushed to Grady hospital late Tuesday afternoon, while one other victim of an automobile accident was reported to have received a fractured skull.

Two others suffered injuries as the only serious toll of election day accidents in Atlanta. However, police reported that none of the accidents was directly traceable to election-day disturbances.

Raymond Smith, 29, of 110 Luckie street, was carried to Grady hospital after being run down on South Pryor street by an automobile said by police to have been driven by Walter M. Kilgore, of 60 Garnett street.

Wagon Driver Hurt.

W. H. Morris, 39, who gave his address as Brown's Mill road, narrowly escaped death while Wallace Morris, also of Brown's Mill road, was badly cut and bruised when a wagon in which they were riding early Tuesday night was struck by an automobile driven by Bob Hoolsey, a negro, according to police.

Owen Holleran, of 524 Highland avenue, was slightly cut and bruised Tuesday afternoon when he was struck down at Mitchell and Whitehall streets by an automobile, the driver of which disappeared before his identity could be learned.

Little Katherine Wing was reported to have been on her way home from school when she was hit by a truck operated by G. S. Armistead, 19, of 43 Connecticut avenue. The little girl was said to have run from behind a car and across the railroad tracks on East DeKalb avenue. She was struck by the rear of the truck, the path of the truck. Grady hospital physicians reported her skull was probably fractured. Armistead is held without bond pending the outcome of the child's injuries.

Fender Knocks Man Down.

Smith was run down by Kilgore directly in front of the undertaking establishment of Harry G. Poole, Kilgore told police. Smith was brushed into the path of his automobile, the rear fender knocking him to the ground. No charges were made against Kilgore.

Morris was carried to Grady hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a fractured rib, a fractured foot and other lacerations. The two occupants of the wagon reported that an automobile driven by Hoolsey struck their wagon, killing the horse, demolishing the wagon and hurling its occupants into the road. Hoolsey is held by county police pending the outcome of the men's injuries.

BEN PAULEN LEADS WHITE IN KANSAS

Topeka, Kan., November 4.—A sweeping victory for the republican state and national tickets in Kansas was indicated by early returns here Tuesday. Scattering reports received from all sections of the state showed that President Coolidge was leading John W. Davis with La Follette running a poor third.

Ben S. Paulen, republican candidate for governor, took the lead in the first returns and was maintaining this lead as reports continued to arrive.

William Allen White, independent gubernatorial candidate, stepped out ahead in Leavenworth and Douglas counties, but later returns indicated that Paulen was slowly cutting down his majority. United States Senator Arthur Capper was holding better than a 2 to 1 lead over James Malone, his democratic opponent, in early returns.

BRITISH LABOR SURRENDERS REINS

BY CHARLES M. MCCANN.

London, November 4.—Socialism has relinquished authority to conservatism in England. Ramsay MacDonald placed his resignation as prime minister in the hands of the king 11 months after the 1923 election which elevated him to office but not to power at the head of a minority government.

The Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin former premier and chancellor of the exchequer, has accepted King George's mandate to form a conservative government.

MacDonald and Baldwin visited his majesty at Buckingham Palace within a half hour of each other Tuesday evening. As MacDonald entered Downing street after his conference with the king, during which the socialist resignation was delivered, Baldwin arrived within the gates of the palace in a taxicab. The socialist leader wore a speckled top hat and frock coat outfit when he called on his majesty.

Roles Reversed.

The lines, the stage and the principals were identical with the political show provided after the elections a year ago. The only difference was an exchange of roles. This time MacDonald stepped down to make way for Baldwin. A year ago Baldwin was in retreat.

With his huge majority in the house of commons, it is not likely that Baldwin will have another such errand to the place for at least four years and the meaning of MacDonald's act as leader of the opposition.

The conservatives probably will take over the reins of government Friday.

The socialist cabinet met in Downing street for the last time Tuesday afternoon. The members heard an incomplete report on the investigation of the Zinovieff letter which altered the aspect of the British campaign when its substantive contents were published by the foreign office, and officially attributed to Gregory Zinovieff, president of the communist international.

Original Letter Unseen.

Forecasts of "sensational disclosures" relative to the letter are made in the Laborite Daily Herald. The cabinet investigating committee reported that it had not had time to determine the authenticity of the letter, but condemned the foreign office indirectly by declaring that publication and acceptance of the letter as genuine had been determined upon after examination of only a copy of the letter. The government has never seen the original.

The cabinet decided to resign at once, and following the adjournment, MacDonald went directly to Buckingham palace, where he spent half an hour with King George.

"Are we down-hearted?" shouted a member of the crowd which had gathered in Downing street to see the premier off on his last official journey.

"Not a bit," replied MacDonald.

"Good old MacDonald," shouted the crowd, and England's first socialist premier was off to tell the king that he no longer could command the confidence of the house of commons.

Baldwin Devising Cabinet.

Baldwin was summoned to the palace in his capacity as head of the conservative party, a leadership which devolved to him when Andrew Bonar Law was forced to resign it and the conservative premiership in 1923, owing to an illness from which he subsequently died. Shortly after 7 o'clock Tuesday evening Baldwin left the palace empowered to form a government.

Since the overwhelming defeat of the government last week Baldwin has been in the country devising a cabinet. He has two prominent men for almost every job and the first intra-party squabbles which undoubtedly will make his life as leader a merry one probably will arise over the impossibility of including in the cabinet all the eminent conservatives who believe themselves to be entitled to that honor.

Parliament Meets November 18.

Two weeks remain before parliament assembles on November 18. The time is ample for labor to organize itself into a compact if powerless opposition and for the conservatives to make a statement of principles to be announced as a speech from the throne.

Before the days before the opening of a new parliament have found the liberal party either forming a ministry or marshalling the opposition. The 40 liberal M. P. S. will have little to do in the new parliament.

BALDWIN AGREES TO FORM CABINET

London, November 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Stanley Baldwin, conservative leader and former premier, agreed to form a new cabinet today when called to Buckingham palace by King George.

The government headed by Mr. MacDonald, self-educated son of a Scotch peasant, was in power nine months, during which its defeat was possible at any time by a combined vote in the house of the conservatives and liberals, who jointly outnumbered the laborites.

The labor prime minister's foreign policy, envisaging resumption of the entente cordiale with France, close cooperation with the league of nations and settlement of the reparations question, met with general approbation, but it was on his attitude toward Russia that he first faced the wave of disapproval which culminated in his defeat.

Fulfilling what amounted to a campaign pledge he extended recognition to Russia and concluded a preliminary commercial agreement with the soviet government which has not yet been ratified.

Then the case of James R. Campbell, editor of a communist periodical, prosecution of whom on sedition charges was dropped by the attorney general, brought to the fore the opposition in the house to the premier's attitude toward communism in Russia and out.

After a vote had been carried calling for an inquiry into the case, Mr. MacDonald brought about the dissolution of parliament and went before the country.

Public interest seemed somewhat apathetic at first as to the outcome of the general election, but at the eleventh hour in the campaign the "Zinovieff letter" incident arose, focusing attention on the communist propaganda, issue and labor went down to defeat under a conservative landslide.

Details Discussed.

Details of the proposal of the directors to acquire the Lyric site and erect a $500,000 club on it were discussed at length by members of the club before the vote authorizing the board of directors to proceed with the plan.

FIFTY WITNESSES GIVEN GRILLING

Niles, Ohio, November 4.—Troops here today dragged Mosquito creek in an unsuccessful effort to locate bodies reported thrown into the water during Saturday's Ku Klux Klan and anti-klon riot.

Reports had been current that men were killed in the rioting and their bodies thrown away.

Colonel L. S. Connelly, in charge of Ohio national guardsmen still here ordered the creek dragged.

No disturbances were reported during today's balloting.

A number of loaded pistols, shotguns and rifles and a quantity of ammunition which authorities believe were intended for use here Saturday were seized by the militia in houses and shanties in McDonald, a steel town two miles east of here, today.

The raiding party also procured information which is expected to uncover more firearms and ammunition and result in further arrests.

Nab Eight with Weapons.

Lazo Demir was arrested and charged with illegal possession of weapons and insubordination.

He was seen to leave a train with a rifle and was followed home, the raids resulting.

More than 50 witnesses have been examined by the military board of inquiry into Saturday's rioting.

Eight arrests were made today, a majority for carrying weapons.

Military control in the Niles area is expected to be lifted tomorrow. Major General Benson Hough, of the Ohio national guard, has returned to Columbus, leaving Colonel Connelly in charge.

LYRIC'S PURCHASE VOTED BY A. A. C.

investigated the matter of financing the structure for the Lyric site.

Tentative plans for the Atlanta Athletic club's new city home have already been drawn by Architect Hal Hentz, who was called in at conference of the directors on the building project. The plans, however, are in a more or less tentative stage and other sets will be prepared later.

Mr. Hentz said that the only plan he has drawn calls for retention and use of the four walls of the Lyric theater in the new city club. Others to be prepared will include only a portion of the Lyric theater walls, while still others to be drawn will call for the raising of the theater and new construction throughout.

No matter what plans are finally adopted, Mr. Hentz said last night, the new building will include all modern club features, with increased gymnasium space at the rear, and model arrangement of lounges, recreation rooms, serving rooms and bachelor apartment features.

Details Discussed.

Details of the proposal of the directors to acquire the Lyric site and erect a $500,000 club on it were discussed at length by members of the club before the vote authorizing the board of directors to proceed with the plan.

Plans for New Building Taken on Motion of R. A. Palmer.

Taking exception to the report of the majority of the directors on plans for a new city club was a minority report prepared and read by John E. Smith, the only member of the board who did not concur in the proposal to acquire the Lyric theater site.

Mr. Smith based his objection to the plan on his contention that a "voted indebtedness" of more than $750,000, which he declared would be required to carry out the building plans, was more than the club could pay off.

During the discussion of the building proposal, President Hudson announced his intention to retire from his position as president of the club April 1, when the annual election of officers takes place. It was the general opinion of members, however, last night that Mr. Hudson could be prevailed upon to continue in office at least until the present plan for a new city club is carried to a successful conclusion.

Mr. Hudson said that his health might make it necessary for him to give up the work by which, as president of the club, he has guided it to the place it occupies among clubs and as a business organization.

Is Your Tax Load Heavy Enough?

If Government Ownership of Railroads should ever be realized in this country, two additional tax burdens would inevitably be thrust upon the American people:

1. The Government would have to purchase the railroads at their present value of at least twenty billion dollars, because our constitutional guaranty provides against confiscation.
2. The taxes the railroads pay—a million dollars a day—would have to be assumed by the individual taxpayers, because government property is exempt from taxation.

Disregarding any assessment to pay off the enormous debt of twenty billions, interest thereon at 4% would amount to $800,000,000 per year; this added to the $365,000,000 railway taxes would make a total of $1,165,000,000 that would be saddled on to the people for the questionable benefit of owning the railroads.

The American people are now paying the overwhelming sum of seven billion, seven hundred million dollars in annual taxes. If the Government assumed control of the railroads, and the extra taxes required for their purchase and operation were levied, the annual tax bill of this country would run nearly ten billion dollars; an amount greater than any free people have ever been called upon to pay in the history of the world.

CURSING OR BLESSING?
Cursed be the man that trusts in his own strength and makes flesh his arm, and whose heart departs from the Lord.

YESTERDAY AND TODAY.
The American citizen sips his coffee this morning with a new perspective.

The quadrennial election, wherein so important a figure in our national life as a president is to be chosen, is always the end of one era and the beginning of another.

Whatever may be one's party affiliations, and however one's hopes may have suffered or triumphed, we cannot help but feel a sense of satisfaction that it is all over.

The campaign for a national election begins a year ahead—sometimes more than that.

We have the pre-convention campaign, wherein the aspirants who seek the party nominations are campaigning for delegates to the national conventions.

These campaigns are usually more disturbing than the others.

Then follows the convention period; and then the campaigning of the candidates, culminating in the final big event on the "first Tuesday in November."

For a year we are buffeted about from one political row to another, first in our own party—whatever party that may be, for the pre-convention campaigns are entirely factional—and then we are made to listen to all the sins of omission and commission that can possibly be charged up, one against the other; and finally we register our choice, do a little yelling or sighing, and then get down to business, realizing that because of or despite what has happened, the country is still safe, and the old ship is riding in safe water, with neither rocks nor shoals in sight.

And so it is this morning! The victors are entitled to their victory.

The vanquished are just as good Americans as they were yesterday, and perhaps even more useful. The country is to be congratulated that it is all over; and with the political battles behind us, we turn to other things.

The farm prosperity of the country is a reality. Business prospects for the winter are good. Christmas, with all the joy of the old-fashioned merry Yuletide, is just around the corner. The New Year is approaching with its new hopes, new plans, new ideals, new enthusiasm.

And so it is! The election is over and we are the happier. We have other things to do now—other things to think about.

Our system of democracy gives us equal opportunities, and demands of us equal responsibilities; let's meet our responsibilities, and take on a new viewpoint for the progress of our country, the prosperity of our people, the happiness of all of us.

Yesterday was election! Today the sun of opportunity never broke more encouragingly across a new horizon.

THE FINANCIAL MEET.

The international financial conference at Paris is dealing with the problem of allocation of the payments to be made by Germany to the various powers under the Dawes reparation plan.

In a short time the United States will have what it regards as a just and legal claim against Germany of approximately $600,000,000, which that nation will not be able to pay unless it is incorporated in the reparations program. Hence the presence of Colonel James A. Logan as the American representative at the Paris conference.

This claim against Germany grows out of the losses of life and property during the war, and for the use of the American army in one of the bridge heads along the Rhine during the time the United States was participating in the occupation of the Ruhr.

It will be recalled that when this government took up the question of finding a practical means for the reimbursement of army costs along the Rhine objection was raised by some of the allied powers. Negotiations subsequently instituted led to an expression by the allies of their willingness to meet the wishes of the American government.

Following this, and after a conference with the allies held nearly two years ago the Wadsworth agreement was entered into whereby the sum due the United States for this specific account should be made in 12 annual payments from the funds subsequently to be paid as reparations by the German government.

No understanding, however, was reached as to the other claims of this government. Unless some understanding regarding them shall be arrived at, by which they may be liquidated out of the general reparations payment, the United States does not stand much chance of collecting the same, for generations at least, as the reparation claims agreed upon would take priority, and would obstruct any effort, apart from such a program, to collect the same. In that event the individual claimants, for whom this government is negotiating, will all be dead before any reimbursements can be made.

In the meantime, however, the United States holds a fund, to the credit of the alien property custodian, growing out of the sequestration of private property of German citizens in this country during the war, aggregating $300,000,000.

If Colonel Logan can bring about any satisfactory agreement as to the American property claims this question will also be taken into consideration.

PROSPEROUS BUT BLIND.

According to the car service division of the American Railway association more cars were loaded with revenue freight during the week ending October 18 than during any week in the history of American railroading. The total for the week was 4,102,336 cars, which exceeded by 4,843 the previous highest record established during September, 1923.

Commenting on this remarkable record the Railroad Data, official publication of the department of public relations, says:

"Not only does this figure, 4,102,336 cars, represent the highest car loading for any single week in the history of the American railroads but this new high record was accomplished without car shortage, congestion or other transportation disability. Today there are about 100,000 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service when needed, while the railroads have approximately 5,400 serviceable locomotives, in storage, about twice as many as they had at this time last year."

While the figures are not available it is known that travel has kept up the pace, thereby assuring to the trunk-line railroads of the country not only record breaking freight but passenger revenues.

This most excellent condition is reflected in the range of quotations on railroad securities.

These facts being outstanding—in a nutshell that the railroads are in better financial condition than they have ever been in their history—then why is it that the railroads are fighting the proposed abolition of the Pullman surcharge which was granted only as a temporary relief to bridge them over the depression period of postwar reconstruction? Not only are the roads fighting this proposed abolition of a wholly unwarranted and an inexcusable 50 per cent tax on all patrons of sleeping and parlor cars, but the interstate commerce commission, for some mysterious reason, has deferred doing its duty in the premises and peremptorily abolishing the subsidy by order, as it has a right to do, until its own action has become little less than a national scandal.

The outstanding plank in the La Follette platform is government ownership of railroads. It is a wild dream of socialism and yet the La Follette popular vote yesterday, throughout the nation, will very probably be sufficiently large to encourage the leaders of that movement to organize a permanent party with federal ownership its chief objective. No policy of government could more quickly tear down the business and industry of the country, and oppressively burden the individuals with excessive taxation, and yet it is the action of the railroads themselves, in this very period of their greatest prosperity in history, that is causing this situation that is little less than alarming.

They admit their enormous business—exploit the record, which is one to be proud of. But there is such a thing as being so intoxicated with success that serious trouble is invited through a callousness to public interest. The public demands the abolition of this Pullman surcharge, and if the railroads persist in their present policy of fighting that demand a reaction, already set in, will gain enormous momentum.

Beneath the window where I dream and write
A sad voice echoes through the street—
A twinkle in the eye of a beggar's dress.

Curled of bright gold—a face of loveliness,
And a fair form, clad in a beggar's dress.

Mid hurrying crowds, or lives that
She sings of home who never knew a home,
The shadows deepen on the heartless street:
The coin falls on the pavement at her feet.

Bread for starved lips! But ere she fades from sight,
Glad for the coin, she winks "Bless you—goodnight!"

Billville Literary Notes.

"Bill, of Billville," is the name of a new novel by Colonel Jones, of Jonesville. It is a great story, and we haven't been quite sure since it first struck us.

After currying the mules, the other day, and splitting the corral of the wood, our leading poet wrote an ode on the town mayor for which he got 30 days.

A prize of one ox, two brindle cows and a copy of "The Poet's Progress," has been offered for the best poem on the Billville Fire Department.

The ring, it cost ten dollars, an' Moll—she had it on!

But Moll got a planner—the best in the county, or so she thought.
(It must 'a' been a good one, fer it weighed six hundred pound!)

It had a voice like thunder—its keys were black an' white, an' it was a-plannin' all day long.
An' Moll, she played it all day long, n'er give it rest at night!

She kept it goin' constant—no matter what they'd say.
Her feller had to listen, fer he couldn't get away!

RESPONSIBILITY.

The serious thing about assuming responsibility is the additional responsibility that you have to take care of.

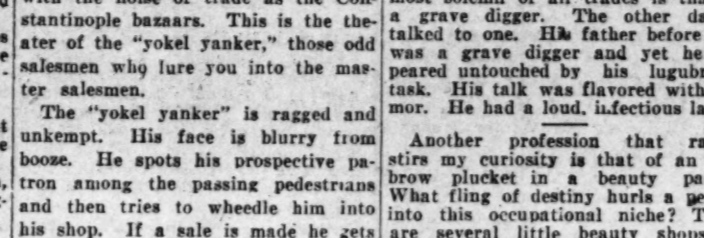

Responsibility is the penalty of being "somebody" in the world, by doing something really worth while.

That's the trouble with fame when you get it. You have to live up to it. You have to watch your step that you don't lose it.

CURSING OR BLESSING?
Cursed be the man that trusts in his own strength and makes flesh his arm, and whose heart departs from the Lord.

YESTERDAY AND TODAY.
The American citizen sips his coffee this morning with a new perspective.

The quadrennial election, wherein so important a figure in our national life as a president is to be chosen, is always the end of one era and the beginning of another.

Whatever may be one's party affiliations, and however one's hopes may have suffered or triumphed, we cannot help but feel a sense of satisfaction that it is all over.

The campaign for a national election begins a year ahead—sometimes more than that.

We have the pre-convention campaign, wherein the aspirants who seek the party nominations are campaigning for delegates to the national conventions.

These campaigns are usually more disturbing than the others.

Then follows the convention period; and then the campaigning of the candidates, culminating in the final big event on the "first Tuesday in November."

For a year we are buffeted about from one political row to another, first in our own party—whatever party that may be, for the pre-convention campaigns are entirely factional—and then we are made to listen to all the sins of omission and commission that can possibly be charged up, one against the other; and finally we register our choice, do a little yelling or sighing, and then get down to business, realizing that because of or despite what has happened, the country is still safe, and the old ship is riding in safe water, with neither rocks nor shoals in sight.

And so it is this morning! The victors are entitled to their victory.

The vanquished are just as good Americans as they were yesterday, and perhaps even more useful. The country is to be congratulated that it is all over; and with the political battles behind us, we turn to other things.

The farm prosperity of the country is a reality. Business prospects for the winter are good. Christmas, with all the joy of the old-fashioned merry Yuletide, is just around the corner. The New Year is approaching with its new hopes, new plans, new ideals, new enthusiasm.

And so it is! The election is over and we are the happier. We have other things to do now—other things to think about.

Our system of democracy gives us equal opportunities, and demands of us equal responsibilities; let's meet our responsibilities, and take on a new viewpoint for the progress of our country, the prosperity of our people, the happiness of all of us.

Yesterday was election! Today the sun of opportunity never broke more encouragingly across a new horizon.

THE FINANCIAL MEET.

The international financial conference at Paris is dealing with the problem of allocation of the payments to be made by Germany to the various powers under the Dawes reparation plan.

In a short time the United States will have what it regards as a just and legal claim against Germany of approximately $600,000,000, which that nation will not be able to pay unless it is incorporated in the reparations program. Hence the presence of Colonel James A. Logan as the American representative at the Paris conference.

This claim against Germany grows out of the losses of life and property during the war, and for the use of the American army in one of the bridge heads along the Rhine during the time the United States was participating in the occupation of the Ruhr.

It will be recalled that when this government took up the question of finding a practical means for the reimbursement of army costs along the Rhine objection was raised by some of the allied powers. Negotiations subsequently instituted led to an expression by the allies of their willingness to meet the wishes of the American government.

Following this, and after a conference with the allies held nearly two years ago the Wadsworth agreement was entered into whereby the sum due the United States for this specific account should be made in 12 annual payments from the funds subsequently to be paid as reparations by the German government.

No understanding, however, was reached as to the other claims of this government. Unless some understanding regarding them shall be arrived at, by which they may be liquidated out of the general reparations payment, the United States does not stand much chance of collecting the same, for generations at least, as the reparation claims agreed upon would take priority, and would obstruct any effort, apart from such a program, to collect the same. In that event the individual claimants, for whom this government is negotiating, will all be dead before any reimbursements can be made.

700 Crowd Kimball House To Launch Chest Campaign

"Greatest Meeting Ever Assembled in Interest of Charity," Declares Chairman Eugene Black.

Filling every nook in the big dining room and overflowing into the ballroom of the Kimball house, 700 Atlantans gathered Tuesday night for the first meeting of the Community Chest campaign, which begins this morning, to raise in one week $800,000 for the support of 40 Atlanta welfare agencies next year. Although crowded almost to the point of suffocation, the group sat spellbound under the magic of Eugene R. Black's oratory as he described the work done by the agencies in the Community Chest. The meeting was the first general meeting of the Community Chest campaign, and it assembled for the first

Social Workers and the Chest

Among all the callings that demand nobility of purpose, that of the ministry stands with the exalted. Yet preachers are human. They must live. They need food, shelter, clothing. They must buy these things. They must earn the money to buy them with. Having no other income than their daily earnings, they must derive this money as payment for their services. So preachers are paid. Not much. But a little. Enough to live on. No preacher ever gets rich from his salary. Teachers also are human. Theirs also is a high calling. They also must live. So teachers are paid. Not much. But enough to live on. The physician, healer of human ailments, also has a high calling, and also must live. So he, too, is paid. Social workers soothe the sick; comfort the downhearted; train the young. Theirs is a highly specialized calling that requires study and experience. Social workers are human. They must have food and clothes and shelter. Devoting their days to this service, and having no other income than their earnings, they must derive from this work the money for their expenses. So social workers also are paid. Not too much. But enough to live on. It would be ideal, of course, if all the higher callings could be subsidized, and if all those who enter them could do so with no thought of self. But this is a practical world, and ideals are hard to attain. We must deal with things as they are.

Within the budget of every one of the 40 agencies in the Community Chest is some estimate for the salaries of staff workers through 1925. If nothing were provided for this, all the rest of the fund would do no good because there would be nobody to watch its wise and proper distribution.

Salaries for social workers represent a small part of the total. But it is a vital part. And as Atlanta becomes more familiar each year with the need to pay social workers and the importance of getting good ones, Atlanta will recognize this fact and say less and less about it.

PEACH GROWERS PLAN CONFERENCE TO BOOST INDUSTRY

Protection and promotion of the peach industry in Georgia will be the object of a meeting that is scheduled to be held within the next ten days with orchardmen and financiers in attendance, according to an announcement made Tuesday by W. B. Baker, of Atlanta, who is acting in the interest of the peach growers.

Important among the methods mentioned as certain to come before the next meeting are those of forming a co-operative marketing association and creation of ample finances to back the industry.

The committee of ten appointed by Mr. Baker to consider methods of protecting and promoting the peach industry follows: T. K. Glenn, president of the Atlanta & Lumber National bank; T. R. Turner, president of the Bibb National Bank of Macon; C. B. Lewis, president of the Fourth National bank of Macon; A. E. Bird, Jr., cashier of the Citizens and Southern bank of Macon; C. E. Martin, vice president of the Citizens' Bank of Fort Valley, Ga.; A. J. Evans, Fort Valley; Ed. M. McKenzie, Monticello; B. B. Murphy, Marshallville; J. L. Beis, Woodbury, all prominent bankers or peach growers; Warren Grice, prominent peach grower and attorney of Macon; and J. L. Benton, president Georgia Fruit Growers' Exchange.

GEORGIA CITIES URGED TO HELP BIG EXPOSITION

Cities of Georgia are not responding as they should concerning the Georgia exhibit to be shown at the Southern exposition to be held in the Grand Central palace, New York, January 13-19, states B. S. Barker, executive secretary of the Southern exposition. "I am very disappointed that the people have not grasped this opportunity in making a representative showing of their state at this exposition," he added.

Committees have been at work for the last week trying to create interest and have had little response from the state as a whole, according to Mr. Barker. Only Albany, Macon, Columbus, Augusta and a few firms from Atlanta have reserved space for the exhibit. Georgia has been allotted 7,500 square feet in the Grand palace for her exhibit and at present only 3,000 feet have been taken.

Governor Clifford Walker, in a letter to Mr. Barker, urges that the industries of the state cooperate in making a representative exhibit. While Mr. Barker states that every effort will be made to create widespread interest in the entire state.

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspirin, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirin and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the

Take the remainder of the bottle home with you. Aspirin is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—(adv.)

Rome, Ga., November 4.—(Special.) The Rome Music Lovers' club has announced a series of three concerts for the 1924-25 season, the first to be December 4, when Marie Tiffany, Metropolitan concert artist, will be soloist with the Rome Symphony orchestra. The soloist for the second concert has not yet been selected. During Music week, in May, the third concert of the symphony orchestra will occur. The organization is under the direction of Paul Nixon, and a varied program is being arranged. Miss Meriam Reynolds will be the solo pianist and Arthur Talmadge, dean of music at Shorter college, will be violin soloist.

Students' Fund Formed.

Rome, Ga., November 4.—(Special.) A revolving loan fund for the benefit of young Romans who are unable to complete their college education has been established by Rome Community No. 8, Knights Templar. The fund is large enough to provide assistance for a dozen or more students and may be enlarged. Loans will be made through a committee composed of George Weathers, Wilson M. Hardy and Wyatt Fox.

Whiz! ROLLER BEARINGS

make this coaster go like a bullet

The wheel bearings of this beautiful "Constitution Express" wagon are roller bearings—just like you find in the expensive automobiles. This is one of the reasons for the extra speed and surprising durability of this wagon. No old-fashioned wooden bolsters to split and break and check—the "Constitution Express" has bolsters made of heavy steel. You cannot find a better wagon anywhere. It has grease cups on each wheel, the same as an automobile. No grease to leak on clothes and wheels cannot lose or run off.

Just Get 4 New Subscriptions

Simply have the coupon blank at the right-hand side signed by responsible new subscribers, and bring or send to the office. If you live in Atlanta, come to The Constitution office today, or any day and see the balloon-like-tired flyer, compare it with others, and you won't rest until you own one. Get in the game! It is easy to earn one.

IT'S EASY WORK!

It will take you only a short time to secure four new six-month subscriptions to The Daily and Sunday Constitution, because every one knows that The Constitution is Atlanta's outstanding newspaper.

Besides helping you earn your Constitution Express wagon, the people who sign for six months through you are receiving the news of the world, interesting reading articles, and features for every member of the family for six months.

Start right out now and get the necessary number of six-month subscriptions. They must all be new, and each must be financially responsible, a householder, and the business address must be given of each. Then bring or send the subscription coupon blank to The Constitution office and after the subscriptions are verified and are O. K'd, the wagon is yours.

READ THESE INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY

New subscriptions, to be acceptable, must be from persons not at present subscriber to The Daily and Sunday Constitution, nor have been for the past thirty days, must not directly or indirectly take the place of some one who is now or has been a recent subscriber, or will be in the future.

New subscriptions, in addition to being acceptable in Atlanta and suburbs, will also be acceptable in towns outside of Atlanta where The Constitution has a carrier or dealer delivery service. The new subscriptions, however, must be passed upon and acceptable to the dealer or carrier of that town.

Out-of-town workers must turn their coupon book, or list of subscriptions, after it has been filled out with the required number of new subscriptions, each signed by the subscriber, over to the local Constitution dealer for his acceptance of the new subscriptions.

The news dealer will indicate his acceptance by writing over the order in pencil or ink, of each subscription so accepted, "O. K.—Accepted by me," and sign his name. Then the coupon list or book with the required number of accepted subscriptions is to be sent to The Constitution office, which can be sent by either the dealer or the contestant, and the dealer's order will automatically be increased four or more, according to the number of new subscriptions.

Coaster wagons will be shipped by express (collect) to out-of-town workers. Those who live in Atlanta and suburban towns will get the wagons at The Constitution office.

SUBSCRIPTION BY MAIL ACCEPTED: Where The Constitution does not have a carrier service in any town outside of Atlanta, the paper will have to be sent by mail, in which case $5 must be collected for each new six months' subscription and sent with the order. No matter where the subscription is secured, if to go by mail, $5 for six months must accompany the order. The Constitution, however, is not in any way responsible for any collections paid in advance to contestants until the money has reached the office of publication.

THERE ARE ONLY TWO WORKING PLANS FOR SECURING SUBSCRIPTIONS

FIRST: Subscriptions to be delivered by carrier. Subscription orders taken for delivery in the city of Atlanta and suburbs are to be presented to the city circulation department, second floor, Constitution office. They will then be verified.

It may take six days or more to properly verify the orders after you have turned them in before the wagon can be delivered. The Constitution reserves the right to reject any order that is not new; to reject orders from people who are not financially able to pay the amount due for the time contracted for, and to be the sole judge of such matters for all city orders. The out-of-town dealers reserve the same right, and this is agreed to by the contestant when the subscriptions are turned in.

You will find six contract blanks in the coupon. We suggest that you secure five or six orders, if possible, so that if in verifying, one or two should decline to take the paper, or have not sufficient financial responsibility for The Constitution to accept, you will still have four good orders.

SECOND: Paid-in-advance mail subscriptions. Collect in advance for four new six-month subscriptions to The Daily and Sunday Constitution at $5 each, sending the name and address of each with a total remittance of $20, and the wagon is yours. Subscribers paying $5 for six months' subscription in advance do not have to sign an agreement.

THE United States welcomes another distinguished guest, Jean Patou. The great establishment which he heads in Paris probably dresses more smart American women than any other French house. It is significant to note that Lenora Hughes, Mary Pickford and the Dolly sisters are under contract to him not to wear anything that he does not personally design. It is to observe in her own surroundings, the American type that he admires so much, that Patou has come to this country. We print his interview below:

"THE SILHOUETTE, to my idea, should be alive on the woman who wears it. When I design a costume, I plan it for the many moments in which the wearer moves as well as for those in which she stands still. I think of her as dancing—dancing always. And that is why I introduce the dress that is straight in repose and that flares when it is in motion."

"THE SKIRTS are short. Yes—they are most graceful when they are short, if they are becoming to the woman who will wear them. But if they do not suit her—no, ah, no. In general, it is the short skirt that has most grace."

"THE COSTUME in which the wrap harmonizes with the dress—that, I believe, is an idea that has come to remain. It so meets the requirements of the modern woman. When she throws back her coat or her cape, in the daytime, or in the evening, wherever she is, she is complete. And the costume of the woman who is chic is complete always."

"IN JEWELRY—as in all things, I admire all that is beautiful. And if the jewelry goes beautifully with the gown, then it is beautiful, also. That is why I follow the fantasy of the pearls in color."

"AS FOR my new collection, I know two things, and only two—with sureness. I shall continue to make less robes tailleurs, those simple frocks that are distinguished for their tailoring."

"AS FOR what comes in fashions, I do not know. It is the woman herself who makes the mode. The mode rises and changes and falls—but not all of the moment. Have you ever watched, in your garden, a flower that grows, from day to day? Do you see any sudden change when you see it all the time? No. And to me, the mode is like that at its best—rhythm, not revolution."

Mrs. Robertson Weds William R. Asbury.

Gainesville, Ga., November 4.—Captain and Mrs. Edgar B. Dunlap, of Gainesville, announce the marriage of their sister, Mrs. Maggie Dunlap Robertson, to William Rufus Asbury, of Clarksville, the ceremony taking place at four o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of Captain and Mrs. Dunlap on Riverside drive in the presence of the immediate families of the bride and groom.

The Reverend Ernest F. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated, using the ring ceremony.

Mrs. and Mrs. Asbury departed after the service for a sojourn of three weeks in Florida. They will return by boat to Savannah, and will go to the lovely colonial home of Mr. Asbury in Okefenokee.

The bride was handsomely groomed in a traveling costume of navy blue velvet, fastening on the left side, and heavily beaded in a conventional design in narrow black silk braid. A bronze cord ending in two long narrow tassels of red silk tulle outlined the movement waist line and added a French touch to the ensemble. Her hat was a high-crowned model of black panne velvet with aigrette of black burnt goose across the front, and a trailing drape of black lace embroidered in gold over the narrow brim. Her corsage bouquet was of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The news of the marriage will be of cord welcome to a wide circle of friends of both families who are among the prominent citizens of north Georgia. ## MY BEAUTY RECIPE

By MRS. HOWARD C. CHRISTY, As Told to Diana Dare

The war poster girl, the Christy girl—Mrs. Howard Chandler Christy—whose face has filled us with the wonder of womanhood. She opened the door and admitted me to her apartment. Mrs. Howard Chandler Christy stood in front of me, and she was more beautiful than a picture could be. The warmth, the rounded fullness, the realness of her husband's enthusiasm, and, unawares, I was speaking in the low accents of her voice.

"I came," I said, "to ask you about beauty. You stand for so much that is beautiful that we want to listen to you about it."

"Of course, the most beautiful thing in the world is a beautiful woman!" she exclaimed without hesitation as she put one knee on her desk chair and leaned over the chair back.

My first impression of Mrs. Christy was an ideal to strive for. As she spoke she made me feel that she did not want to be taken as an ideal, but that she beamed an ideal far ahead of her.

"A beautiful woman," she said, "has many things: features, coloring, character, refinement. By character I mean living up to what she knows is right and good. These young girls today who think they are beautiful when they throw aside their ideals and high principles are wrong. They throw away the foundation of a beautiful woman."

"Now come into the next room"—she led the way. "You can see for yourself many of the things Mr. Christy and I think are beautiful."

I stood upon the threshold and I like a pebble on the sand as I looked into the large, high-ceilinged room whose skylights shed lengthy rays upon canvases, works of art and photographs of famous men and women, autographed as testimonials to the artistic merit and efforts of Mr. Christy and his wife.

"I am afraid I am spoiled," she said informally. "I have been so much with people who are doing things, who are creating things and trying to give something to the next generation, that I am afraid I can't talk about the petty aspects of beauty, the momentary considerations. The things that are really beautiful are the things that will live."

I was very near to her and listening intently. It became clear why I had not felt uneasy with her. Hers is the nobility of the unselfish, of those who create and serve. Anyone can be raised into the ranks of this nobility for the inclination. There is no arrogance about a real artist.

"The thing that spoils a beautiful woman with me," she continued, "is rudeness will be an event of November 18, was the bride-luncheon at which Mrs. Ernest Thomason and Mrs. Clarence Beers entertained Tuesday.

The house was decorated with autumn leaves and fall flowers.

The honor guest was presented with a piece of hand embroidered lingerie. The top score was a novelty bridge score and the consolation a perfume atomizer.

Those invited to meet Miss Comer were Mrs. Ben Simcox, Mrs. Lewis Hutcherson, Mrs. Donald Denny, Mrs. A. R. Kellam, Mrs. William Owens, Mrs. Fred Betterton, Mrs. Arthur Burdett, Mrs. Lawrence McKinley, Mrs. Pat Hall, Mrs. Jack Cordon, Miss Mildred Brannen, Miss Mattie White Kellam, Miss Eunice Burdett, Mrs. E. C. Boykin, Mrs. M. B. McKeithen, Mrs. Ernest Thomason, Mrs.

conceit. That just kills a person with me. None of us should think about making ourselves beautiful, but about finding the beauty around us and helping others to awaken to the beauty in themselves and about them. I think it is a mistake to try to improve our natural beauty. When we try to change ourselves we usually do something wrong.

"Look outside, not inside, for beauty. You look in for beauty, and you can't see far. You become dissatisfied and grumpy. You look out for beauty, and you have the world for your bounty. You are happy."

"The most beautiful woman is one who is natural and does not strive with herself, but uses this concern for the welfare of others. She reflects beauty."

Mrs. Christy is genuine. She makes me want to carry her sparkling message to every one: to be genuine, to be kind, to be service with life—and not be cheap, chipped or imitation jewels.

DINNER STORIES

At one time A. Hamilton Gibbs, the author, was stationed at a training camp situated near the sea shore. Some of the recruits who hailed from the hinterland had never seen the sea before. Strolling along the water front one morning a couple of "rookies" were importuned by a bathing machine proprietor to "ave a dip," recounts Gibbs.

The benefits of sea bathing were picturesquely extolled. But there was nothing doing. As a last effort, the b. m. p. offered to deliver a couple of pails of briny deep at the billets of the two recruits on the understanding that they were to give a fair trial, per the sponge route, and if found refreshing, they were to pay sixpence per pail for it. The offer was accepted.

The next morning the recruits, duly refreshed, went down to the water front to pay their sixpences. They arrived at a time when the tide was at its lowest ebb and were met by a broad expanse of sand where water had been the day before.

"Good Lord," said one of them, "that fellow sure does do a big business."

In moving and setting down the Jones family had subsisted on short rations, and one morning Mrs. Jones found herself facing an unknown deficit.

"Mary," she said to the maid of all work, "what is there in the store room?"

"Every blessed thing is given out but the tea and coffee," Mary informed her, "an' sure they will, if they last long enough."

"They have come up in the picture, haven't they?" "Yes, they are living off the fat of the land now."

"So?" "Yes, the old man has made a fortune selling a reduction dress to the super-stouts."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Investiture Service Will Be Held.

Today at 12:30 o'clock the impressive service of investiture will be held at Agnes Scott college. The day of investiture is, next to the day of graduation itself, the most important in the life of any Agnes Scott senior, for it is to that day that she, from her earliest freshman days, looks forward as the time when she will be invested with her cap and gown, symbols of senior privileges.

First, to the procession to which so many faculties and girls have entered the Agnes Scott chapel, "Ancient of Days," march the sophomore sisters of the seniors, dressed in white, form a column on each side of the aisle, through which the faculty and seniors pass. The seniors wear for the first time their gowns and carry their caps. Dr. McCain, the president of the college, will offer a short program for the seniors, after which an inspiring selection is always read from the Scriptures. Miss Alexander, the faculty member of the class of '25, will address to that class a brief talk on the meaning of investiture. Each senior carrying her cap, kneels before Miss Hopkins, who places on each her cap. When all are invested, the "Alma Mater" will be sung. The faculty and seniors, wearing their caps, march out to the procession.

Agnes Scott is almost unique in holding this service of investiture. However, it is not alone from its uniqueness that the service gains recognition, but also because of its beauty and impressiveness it deserves an important place in the college year.

Mrs. Jones Charming Fine Arts Club.

The membership of the Fine Arts club, which met on Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Robert Maddox, was given a delightful recital by Mrs. Katherine Tift Jones, the noted pianist, and Mrs. Georgia Price, harpist.

The business of the club was discussed, and then Mrs. Ten Eyck Brown, the president, introduced the program with a selection of Haselmann's. She is a young woman of rare charm and culture, and a master of the difficult instrument which she plays. Her interpretation is perfect and a remarkable example of this was shown in her playing of Rogers' "Old Irish War Dance." As accompaniment to Mrs. Jones was particularly pleasing, and her compositions charming.

Therine Tift Jones' happiness in returning to her homeland made all around her happy, and her program could not have been more appropriate. In a setting of autumn flowers, with November's glorious colored trees nodding at the windows which served as a background, she gave Georgia's own Roselle Montgomery's "Patrician" as her opening number. Her exquisite voice, her charming personality and her sincerity made it not only a stirring thing of beauty, but an inspiration to love one's home and one's people. During the morning Mrs. Jones recited several of Mrs. Montgomery's poems, all of them being enthusiastically received by an appreciative audience. Her program included a wonderfully dramatic and sympathetic recital of Any Lowell's "Pattern," and a delightful recital from May Sinclair's "Dark Night." Mrs. Jones has a delicious sense of humor and great insight into human nature. Her interpretations of the songs, which she does in ante-bellum southern costume, are done in splendid dialect and with a sympathy and an understanding of the race which is just cause for her popularity in both the north and the south.

The program included readings and recitations from Sara Teasdale, Edna St. Vincent Millay, several charming bits from Nathalia Crane, the child poet; Mary Dobbs and Paul Lawrence Dunbar. One outstanding poem was Clement Wood's "Glorious Road." Mrs. Tift knows the negro and his song and she is remarkably sympathetic with his viewpoint. She caught the rhythm and music of the chanting chorus in the "Glorious Road" perfectly. Mrs. Jones inspires one to more careful diction, to clearer enunciation and to better pronunciation. She is a southern woman of whom the south may well be proud and when she goes to New York again and recites Mrs. Montgomery's poem about the old negro man who thought the Savannah river was the best of all rivers except the "Jordan," surely the heart of many a Georgia woman will go with her, because Mrs. Jones is not only giving something to art in her recitals, but also to establishing better sectional feeling and interests throughout America.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Across the Material. Kimono aprons should be ironed from side to side instead of lengthwise to prevent that ugly sagging at the side seams.

Remove the Faded. Cut flowers are lovely in the home, but they are anything but lovely when they are forgotten and allowed to die in their holders.

Clasp Them Together. When ripping clasps from a discarded garment, snap them together as each one is ripped off. Then they will be of some use to you when needed.

Just a Hint. An electric iron by itself is harmless, but in connection with a woman, a doorbell and a forgotten switch, is apt to be the torch that burns down one's home.

Convert the hair tonic bottle which has a device for permitting only a few drops to fall at a time into a bottle for bluing. The amount of bluing may then be easily controlled and the fingers will not be stained after the operations as with the ordinary bottle of blue.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads. To do this get two ounces of calomine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calomine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. (Adv.)

SLAMS AND SLAMS

By Louise Dooly

EVEN widows have their troubles. We know from who has a cellar full of rare wines and liquors, but she is in doubt whether it is an asset or otherwise.

The law does not allow even a man's widow to inherit liquors.

She wants to sell her home, but she can't, because she can't move the liquors, and she won't sell them.

So there you are—And the worst part of it is that her friends keep threatening that before she knows it, some fortune-hunter will marry her for her cellar.

THE CANDOR OF FRIENDSHIP.

WE were talking to one of those rare married couples who can stay on speaking terms through a whole morning's golf together.

When we admitted that we gave up golf a long time ago, they remarked that they had never before heard of anybody giving it up.

"Oh, yes. Two people have. Ourselves and one other," we insisted.

"Only recently a man told us we had been given as his golf club a hundred times."

"How's that?" we asked, distinctly puzzled.

"Well, I've explained to at least a hundred people that the reason I gave up golf was because I played once with a woman who was the worst player I ever saw, and she beat me. That was you."

CLOTHESHANGERS OR—? TUESDAY we had a divine flesh.

Thus the latest and absolute dictum of art and medicine, too.

The fashion books show as yet little hint that there is to be a change in the smart figure, which has for so long been a mere skeleton framework to hang clothes on.

The makers of clothes are reluctant to see the "tube" go. They found it most accommodating to their sense of thrift.

A modicum of material is needed, and little imagination, except as to color, perhaps. None, in a manner of speaking, as to line or drapery.

For every gown is only a slight modification of every other gown. However, this slight modification and much talk about the richness of materials is sufficient to keep the prices up.

THE VOICE OF THE ARTIST. BUT as to the inevitable change to come.

Did you see the explanation a celebrated Viennese artist gave recently of the modish figure—the figure of straight lines?

"It started," he says, "with a school of young painters who were too lazy to paint curves."

How's that for the smart woman's vanity?

WHERE THE DOCTOR COMES IN.

AND as for the health side of the matter:

It is difficult to get statistics about the number of young women who, after using reducing methods of a nature so heroic sometimes as to deserve a lady.

Fla. is the attractive guest of Mrs. William A. Speer at her home on Peachtree road.

Mrs. E. W. More entertained at a bridge party Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home on Peachtree street, in honor of Mrs. Louise Hunt, of Knoxville, Tenn., the guest of Mrs. J. E. Hunnicutt.

Mrs. James B. Fitch, of Chicago, is visiting relatives in Atlanta.

Mrs. and Mrs. R. W. Purcell, of Florence, S. C., formerly of Atlanta, announce the birth of a son on October 31, who has been named for his paternal grandfather, David Eugene.

better cause, fill "rest sanitariums" in the years when they should be enjoying the fullness of youth and bringing children into the world.

The government has not as yet required doctors to publish the lists of such cases; but if the number could be made known, it would probably cause a sensation as great as the publication of income tax returns, and a sensation more generally painful.

The tax publication pained only the victims.

These other statistics of the broken health of young women through pitiful vanity or mere ignorance of the menace of under-nourishment, had posture, the ceaseless dissipation of young energy; such statistics, if they could be published, would hurt the hearts of everybody.

How many mothers, we wonder, whose daughters are keeping themselves molded into tube gowns, and are more concerned over maintaining the right "silhouette" and a constant program of "going somewhere," than in saving their immortal souls—and we say this deliberately—know that one of the first things on the doctor's chart of the tuberculous—and that is a disease preeminently of the young—concerns posture; whether the shoulders are back, for instance, to give the lungs a chance to function? I can see how many young girls consider their carriage smart only when their shoulders are rounded, their chests sunk in, and consequently, their stomachs gawkily to the fore?

But, really, we did not start out to be serious.

To begin with, we had in mind only the remark of the Art Union about lazy artists and straight lines.

We intended this as a congratulatory expression to ladies who are abounding in curves that they would welcome any suggestion that their long sentence to a restricted diet and exercise could almost see its finish.

"True, if it does get 'stylish to be stout,' the conversation of ladies among themselves will be considerably cut down."

"Why, my dear, you won't have to leave off sweets or any of the things you like, if you will just use Dr. Thing-a-bob's rubber reducing garments. They're wonderful. I can lose three pounds a day by wearing them."

"Oh, isn't that?" Oh, no. Athletic women always seem to be so masculine. And you get so vulgarly sublimed. But the Y and Z corset does wonders for me. Just see what straight lines it gives."

Yes. All that sort of thing will probably not be heard in the land after the tube figure goes the way of all flesh.

GOING AND COMING. BUT—here's a horrid thought.

We hate to take away any of the joyous anticipations we may have in the foregoing lines built up among ladies troubled with what our Gallic friends call ommy-bong-ping.

It is, however, a truth no doctor can deny, that the evils of over-nourishment are as great as the unquestionable danger of underfeeding.

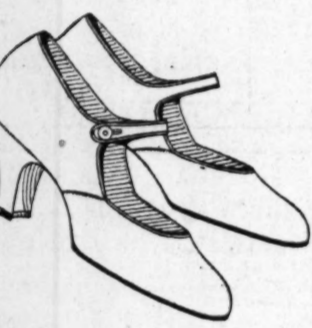

And most plump ladies eat too much. It's an awful thing to say of a lady.

In fact, we should not dare to say it to any lady, even though we put ourselves in the same class by admitting how easily we can run the scales up or down, according as we indulge in our very soporific but intense affection for ice cream and such like, or heroically cut it out.

There's no use naming over the list of diseases that come from high living. It would sound so unpleasant as telling a lady that she is too fat.

But one of the worst features of any of these diseases is that the first thing the doctor does when he finds out where you belong on this list is to take away from you the very things you thought you could go on eating as long as you used Dr. Thing-a-bob's rubber reducing garments!

NO TROUBLE WHEN BABY CAME

Mrs. Crossan Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Dakan Also Tells What This Medicine Does

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I decided to try it as I had had such a hard time with my first child. I took nine bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I never felt better in my life than the day my baby girl was born. I will be glad to tell what it will do, to any woman who will let me know her address."

Mrs. ROSA DAKAN, 2227 S. 11th St., St. Joseph, Missouri.

Back To Normal Health. New Orleans, La.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while I was carrying my child and I must praise it highly because I never suffered one day during that time and could do all my housework and had a very easy confinement. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound because I have a weakness due to working around the house too soon after my baby was born. But thanks again to the Vegetable Compound I am getting back to normal health once more. I advise any woman to take it."

Mrs. A. M. MEYER, Jr., 2019 Touro St., New Orleans, Louisiana.

Not A Bit of Trouble. Wilmington, Delaware.—"I was nervous and weak and not at all regular. I worked in a factory at the time and could not work very much. I was sick over a year, then a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I started to pick up as soon as I began taking it. Then I took it again before my first baby was born and I never had a bit of trouble. I recommend it highly."

Mrs. JANE CROSSAN, 612 Pine St., Wilmington, Delaware.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped many other women just as it has helped Mrs. Dakan, Mrs. Meyer and Mrs. Crossan.

Consider the statements of these women. They give you the benefit of their actual experience with the Vegetable Compound.

A nation wide canvass of women purchasers of the Vegetable Compound reports that 98 out of every 100 have been benefited by its use.

This is a remarkable record and proves the dependability of the medicine for the relief of the troubles women often have.

For weak and run-down conditions so common after child-birth it is well adapted. It strengthens and tones up the system and restores normal health.

The Vegetable Compound contains no harmful drugs or narcotics and can be taken in safety by the nursing mother. For sale by druggists everywhere.

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Morgan Schuyler, one of New York's leading philanthropic and social lights, advertises for a young woman to work in her apartment mornings. The advertisement is answered by a girl evidently of birth and breeding. In spite of the fact that she admits a desire to hide her identity, Mrs. Schuyler accepts her on trust and tags her with the name of Hope Emerson.

Mrs. Schuyler's family consists of her mother, Mrs. Van Dorn; a young brother, Jim Van Dorn, and an older brother, Bertie, who is away.

The second morning of her employment, Hope is called after receiving a mysterious telephone call. Mrs. Schuyler summons Dr. Horace Osborne. Hope tells the doctor she is employed during the afternoon hours on East 70th street. He offers to drive her there and by a strange coincidence has an appointment at the house where Hope is employed. The patient is a boy of 5 years, about whom the entire household mysteriously "wolves"; the closest guardian is an uncle named Keweenaw. All of the members of this household are foreigners except Hope, who is known as Sonia. A day or two later, a visitor, Colonel Van Saanen, a man of obvious importance, calls at the 70th street house. Hope distrusts him, and learns Keweenaw does also. Van Saanen tells Keweenaw he is going to take the boy away that night. Hope decides to call on Dr. Osborne for help. By a trick the colored doctor Hope and the doctor in Van Saanen then bethink themselves to the house, where the two conspirators find the room with the child. They escape through the window and take the boy to a hospital.

The next morning Sally Wallis calls on Hope at the Schuylers. She tells the secretary about her hopeless love affair. The man in the case has just returned to New York after a long absence, and Sally fears that he is ill in a sanatorium and facing a serious operation.

INSTALLMENT XLV.

JIM MAKES A TEMPTING SUGGESTION.

Hope answered half a dozen letters and several telephone calls be-

"You know you're in love with Sally."

fore the younger son of the house presented himself in the study, distilling exuberance.

"Are you going to be very busy today?" she asked after a brief greeting.

The young man's face took on a full holiday expression.

"Not if you need me."

"I don't, but Sally may. Could you keep a pretty close eye on her, especially this evening?"

"You bet I can. I'll telephone asking her to come downtown and lunch with me, and I'll take her to dinner and a play tonight if she'll go. Will that do?"

"I think so. You can decide for yourself during the luncheon. She has just been here and I don't like the mood she's in."

The young man sat down.

"Let's talk it over," he suggested. "I'll cut the office. Money grabbing is abhorrent to me. Besides, I have enough for my simple needs, though it may not supply all you're accustomed to. Do you think we could worry along on six thousand a year?"

Hope shook her head at him. She was in no mood for persiflage.

"Go away now," she advised, "and don't forget to look after Sally."

"I'm almost sure I'd rather look after you," the visitor complained, but he rose obediently.

"You wouldn't. You know you're in love with Sally, so why deny it?"

"On the other hand, why confess it?" The young man looked at her with sudden seriousness. "Sally's young affections are engaged elsewhere, and I'm one of the chaps you read about who've got to let concealment prey on 'em like the worm in the bud."

"Dear boy," Hope spoke very gently, "do you imagine you're concealing it?"

"I hope so. Except for you and mother and Maud and Kawa and Sally herself, and the bunch, and the elevator and basement staff in this building and all my friends and downtown business associations. I don't think any one suspects a thing." He dropped the subject so definitely that his companion almost heard it fall.

"How about going with us tonight?" he brought out. "Dinner at some jolly place, a good cheerful play afterwards. Come now, confess that it would buck you up. Besides you can keep an eye on Sally, too, and, believe me, no single pair of eyes will keep Sally in view if she's really on the rampage."

Hope reflected. The suggestion tempted her. After all, she was young, too, and she hadn't dined out or seen a good play for a long time. Mrs. Schuyler wouldn't like it, but against this objection was the matter of Sally's condition and Sally's threat. If Mrs. Schuyler knew all the aspects of the situation she would approve.

"I believe I'll go," she decided.

"Good work!" Van Dorn's satisfaction was sincere. "Shall we say the Ritz, then, at seven?"

"Heavens, no! Make it a place where we can be quietly dressed and inconspicuous."

"All right. Whatever you say. There's an awfully good Russian dining club in the Forties, where they give you a special program while you eat, and have general dancing afterwards. The patrons wear anything they please, from evening clothes to mackintoshes. Would that do?"

"It sounds interesting." The secretary reflected that she would not be apt to meet there any one she knew. "It will be charming,"

she ended.

"Then I'll call for you here at half-past six."

"No, I'll meet you and Sally there at seven. I suppose they have a waiting room?" She made a note of the address. "And now please trot along. I simply must get back to work."

She gave him a smile with a quality of radiance new to him and he departed for his office wearing his twin brother, whose luster not even a five-minute wait for the elevator dimmed. It also survived the minor annoyance of a slight skid on the sleet-covered steps leading from the entrance doors to the sidewalk. But when he discovered that he had missed by a fraction of a second the subway express train he had especially wished to catch, Van Dorn took the smile off. It was clearly out of place in the business world, but he could put it on again with his evening clothes at 6 o'clock that night.

Miss Emerson was an efficient young person and she knew it, which was one reason why she so lightly added to her daily schedule the burdens of others. Nevertheless, she was surprised by the amount of work she was able to accomplish that morning. She even lightly through the mass of circulars and begging letters that for a fortnight had lain unopened on the desk of the overworked Mrs. Van Dorn. Most of these Hope destroyed, and she also returned to the disappointed senders half a dozen $5 tickets for which, had they been held a few days longer, the old lady would certainly have had to pay.

During these altruistic labors the recipient of the letters beamed on her complacently. She had a secretary! She was busy with her secretary that morning. She would mention that to her friends. In the meantime she recurrently mentioned Bertie. Bertie's name was the love motive of her daily life.

Mrs. Schuyler telephoned that she would not be home for luncheon, and the collaborators had a companionable meal together while the secretary listened to another maternal saga on the theme of Bertie. The older son appeared to be filling his mother's mind even more than usual, if that was possible. She described with unceasing afternoon in Bertie's infancy when she had been forced to leave him alone for hours with his nurse. He had disappeared, and the frantic servant, unable to reach his mother, had stirred the neighbors to a vain search for him. When Mrs. Van Dorn returned, she found Bertie peacefully asleep in the closet off her bedroom, with his arms embracing the skirt of her best gown and his face unhygienically buried in its folds. He explained that he had been lonely and seeking for her, and he inti-imated as well as an infant of limited vocabulary could do it that her gown was the best substitute for her he had been able to find.

Until the secretary departed the old lady wandered about the house in her wake, looking and acting rather like a lonely child herself. Now that her correspondence had been attended to she was plainly less busy than usual, and even the charms of her radio failed to interest her. Hope, conscious of this mental unrest, would have liked to remain with her, but she was due in East Seventieth street at 2 o'clock. She suggested to Nancy that it might be wise to work in the general region of Mrs.

Van Dorn's room until Mrs. Schuyler returned. Then, leaving several dozen letters for her employer to sign and send off, as well as a few closely written pages of telephone memoranda, she hurried toward the subway with a heart that, despite the relief of these activities, sat none too lightly on its throne.

In the train she had leisure to check off the items that should have given her ease of mind. The outstanding one, of course, was that Vasali was in personal charge of affairs in the East Seventieth street house.

There was an immense comfort in this, and an equal satisfaction in the companion reflection that she need never again see Van Saanen. Vasali, plainly the banker of the menage, would immediately pay the Tartar's hospital nurses' fees, if he had not already done so, and would naturally insist on recompensing Dr. Osborne for his time. Vasali always handled money with a air of abandon. His willingness to pay for everything promptly and in cash was a comforting reflection for a penniless young person who the previous night had assumed financial obligations she could not meet. Moreover, the Tartar was home again.

THE GUMPS—REVENGE! VENGEANCE!

"The Fun Shop"

By William M. Barnhart.

I'm feeling mighty good today;

Last night I didn't hit the day

Till early morn;

I helped to turn old bedlam loose;

I shouted, marched and raised the deuce,

And blew a horn.

I watched reports thrown on a sheet

By men who used, across the street,

A stereopticon.

With others there I stuck it out

Until I knew, beyond a doubt,

My man had won.

I tickled girls upon the cheek;

I'll have to whisper for a week;

I nearly froze;

I've got confetti by the peck.

In hair and ears and down my neck

And up my nose.

I should feel sorry for my boss;

Today I am a total loss.

—Eugene Owen.

Like-wise the crew;

But he's so glad he'll let it ride;

He voted on the winning side

And celebrated, too.

He purchased a radio set!

PURPLE HURRICANE BLOWS 5-0 VICTORY OVER G. M. A.

Petrels Begin Hard Workouts for Howard

Oglethorpe Shows Slight Hurts After Sewanee Game; Dr. Jacobs Lauds Eleven

BY BILL MORROW.

With Howard college as the next opponent on Oglethorpe's list of gridiron attractions, Coach Harry Robertson, after allowing his charges a day's vacation, sent the Petrel players through a regular practice yesterday afternoon on Hernandez field, prior to the battle Saturday in Birmingham. Regardless of the fact that the Petrels were the victors in their tilt with Sewanee and consequently rate the favorite position over Howard's camp of gridiron, the Petrel mentor has cautioned his charges against overconfidence and a let-up in their workouts.

Regardless of the fierceness of play in last Saturday's get-together between the Sewanee Tigers and the Petrels, only a few hurts were reported to the Petrel coach. Outside of bruises, cuts, twisted knees and the like, the squad is in good condition and without further injury should be in first-class condition for its display in Birmingham.

The Petrel win over Sewanee was called "the greatest victory of an Oglethorpe football team" by Dr. Thornton Jacobs, president of the university, in a talk to the student body.

Following the tilt with Howard Saturday in Birmingham, the Petrels will hit for St. Louis to show against the university of that name. Next comes Mercer in Atlanta on November 22, and the schedule will be completed on Thanksgiving in Chattanooga against the University of Chattanooga's hopes.

With Mercer coming soon on the Petrels' schedule, much time has been spent by students of the rival schools in an attempt to do out the relative strength of both teams. The tie of Mercer with Loyola and that of Oglethorpe with the New Orleans eleven points to a hectic battle when the two forces meet. The Mercer Bears fought the Loyola team to a scoreless tie, while the Petrels countered and were countered by the Loyola backs for a 13-13 tie.

The exhibition of the entire Petrel line Saturday exceeded the hopes of all the fans. The ends, Nix and Carroll, were holding down their extreme posts neatly. Sewanee accounted for little yardage around these boys. Cooper and Crowe gave an opposing pair of tackles 60 minutes of trouble, and Corless and Hardin were in the thick of the fight as they threw back thrust after thrust at their guard posts. Parrish was another dependable on the line, forgetting that he was a center and lightly tripping off the markers in the final quarter as if he were a back.

Coach Robertson is developing a quiet star back, grouped around Captain Adrian Maurer the Petrel offense shows an increasingly constant gaining power in every meeting. Bob Kilgore, who is one of the most valuable men in the Oglethorpe camp, Alton Redfearn is improving every day and is an able running mate to the shifty, fast-stepping Petrel captain. Campbell also has shown a thrust when carrying the pigskin.

Blackburg, Va., November 4.—(Special.)—High speed week, preparing to meet North Carolina State college in Raleigh next Saturday in a game which is destined to be one of the most hotly contested and colorful billed by the local management this season. The Gobblers are very much elated over their showing last week, and against the Clemson Tigers. Up to this game the Techmen have not shown their usual brilliant offensive, but against the Tigers the Gobblers cut loose with 122 and is rated as one of the most brilliant backs that has worn the Orange and Maroon in years. Esieck can kick, pass and run with the best. He was one of the high scoring men against Clemson, registering two touchdowns and aiding materially in two others.

The Virginia Poly players still rank as one of the undefeated teams of the southern conference. Prior to the Clemson game, no team had crossed her way. She topped her uprisings with a field kick.

Against Clemson, Dick Esieck, a new addition to the team, led in the offensive. Esieck was one of the stars of the freshman team last season and his work against Clemson was of the highest order. Esieck will weigh around 192 and is rated as one of the most brilliant backs that has worn the Orange and Maroon in years. Esieck can kick, pass and run with the best. ### maining performances of "Foot-Loose" today.

(At the Lyric.)

The Lyric Players' dramatic stock company is closing its 140 continuous weeks' engagement with really "big stuff" in "Home Fires," a dramatic comedy of romance, scandal and divorce, this week. "New Toys," the comic tragedy of married life after the first baby comes, is billed for next week.

"Home Fires" is an Owen Davis success and displays Edith King and Loraine Bernard at their best. Preparations are already being made for the opening of the musical stock company at the Lyric November 17.

Vaudeville.

(At Keith's Forsyth.)

Atlanta who have seen the vaudeville program at Keith's Forsyth theater the first three days of this week have been entertained by a genuine genuine brand of vaudeville, with Bobby Heath, premier of musical revues, offering one of the best numbers as the headlining feature.

Also the program includes more good vaudeville.

Loew's Vaudeville.

(At Loew's Grand Theater.)

Jack Wilson, the famous comedian who has made millions on Broadway, is the big headliner at Loew's Grand theater this week. Jack Wilson with his own company brings his famous sketch, "A Nonsensical Review." Each one of the three in support of the star is another big hit, with the act as a whole is one of the best big-time acts seen in Atlanta in some time. Howard and Ross with their banjo is another big hit, with three other big acts rounding out the bill of vaudeville. Renee Adoree is the star of the feature picture, "The Bandolero."

Reddick and Buck Swing Mean Fist at Gym

Indications Point to Great Battle Here Thursday Night; Tickets Are Selling Fast

BY GEORGE CONGDON.

There have been several lively little fights in the city auditorium of late, but if final workouts mean anything, the prize of all of them is that on tap for Thursday night when Jack Reddick, of Atlanta, ties in with Soldier Buck, a Louisville lad, for a light-heavyweight brawl.

In the 12-round final event of the all-star evening, one of these young men ought to do a pretty nose-bleed or a tail-spin. Either antic is a possible result of a left jab as murderous as that displayed in the closing hard work of both Reddick and Buck in the Southern Athletic club gymnasium yesterday afternoon.

The activities of these two map-makers yesterday made the Southern Athletic club gym look like the setting for the mob stuff from "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Seething, perspiring arms and legs were everywhere. Reddick's arms were seething around Young Stripling, uncrowned light-heavyweight champion. The soldier's punch-punchers were the dismay of Bill McGowan, who is sort of outgrowing his title of the India rubber boxer.

Preparing for Prelims. Then there were a few lesser luminaries preparing for their share of Thursday night's entertainment at the auditorium. There was Joe Burman, a heavyweight, and Gunboat Farley, who do their stuff from "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Seething, perspiring arms and legs were everywhere. Reddick's arms were seething around Young Stripling, uncrowned light-heavyweight champion. The soldier's punch-punchers were the dismay of Bill McGowan, who is sort of outgrowing his title of the India rubber boxer.

It was Thursday night when Jack Reddick and Buck swung their fists at each other in the Southern Athletic club gymnasium. The fight was a light-heavyweight brawl, and the two men were in a fierce struggle. Reddick was the favorite, but Buck was a tough contender. The fight was a close one, and the crowd was on its feet. The fight ended in a draw, but the crowd was satisfied.

Ruel Is Voted American League Premier Receiver

Note: This is the tenth of a series of daily articles analyzing the vote by which the players of the two big leagues picked all-league teams. The vote for the American League was taken yesterday. The vote for the National League was taken today. The vote for the American League was taken yesterday. The vote for the National League was taken today.

The players' vote in the American League showed decided trends of opinion in every case until it came to the selection of a catcher. When the count was completed it was found that "Muddy" Ruel, of Washington, and Johnny Bassler, of Detroit, were tied for the lead in first choice votes. Ruel only won out after a count of second and third choice ballots.

The first-choice count was: Ruel, 40; Bassler, 40; Schang, 20; New York, 20; Myatt, 20; Philadelphia, 20; Severeid, 20; St. Louis, 20.

The count of the second-choice ballots showed Ruel to have received 30 to Bassler's 30. Ruel got 9 third-choice votes and Bassler 7. Thus, by a narrow margin, Ruel was decided to be the American League's premier receiver.

In passing it should be said that no expert has selected the Washington player as an all-American catcher. Mathewson thought Bassler a better man, while Babe Ruth chose Wally Schang.

The players, however, seem to think that Ruel's handling of the Washington pitchers, together with his general receiving and throwing to bases, entitles him to the edge. The fact that despite his size he worked in 240 games for the champion Red Sox, Schang led him by a narrow one. The dope:

G. A. B. R. H. P. C.
Ruel, 149 499 50 141 233
Bassler 124 377 43 131 247
Schang 113 357 46 102 236

No man in the National League received a majority of the votes cast for catcher. No less than eleven players were named for the all-league post. Hartnett, of Chicago, was the leader, with only a little more than a third of the 111 votes, which were cast as follows:

Hartnett, 38; Taylor, Brooklyn, 20;

place in the Kimball house, where they are on sale, and a record house for anything but a Stripling fight is expected by Matchmaker Holt Gwiner, who is acting for the American Legion.

Left jabs are the specialties of both Reddick and Buck, with right crosses to break the monotony of the nose punching from the south side, we noted in the workouts of the slap slingers of the final fracas.

Reddick did more work than Buck, going 10 rounds, three of which were against Stripling. Incidentally, Stripling threw a little more steam into the workout than is generally expected in anything but a regular ring rant. He was doing that to prime Reddick to take everything Buck can throw with his hands. Reddick does take everything, he is a much stronger man than we suspected. He will exceed our expectations if he actually stops half of the gloves Buck fires at him.

Fights Bill Also. After working with Stripling, Reddick polished off his offensive work with two rounds against McGowan, slugging under full steam ahead, being careful only to keep out of the way of any real hard knocks from McGowan's knuckles. He fought with two more rounds against McGowan's knuckles. He fought with two more rounds against McGowan's knuckles.

Buck went only eight rounds, taking four with McGowan, two in shadow boxing and two with the punching bag. It's probably a good thing Buck didn't cut loose with McGowan. When he did cut loose against the bag he was in a bad way. He was in a bad way. He was in a bad way.

Today both Reddick and Buck will work only lightly on a keen edge for the entertainment Thursday night. Thursday will be a day of rest for both until about 10 o'clock, the time they will probably start festivities. The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Ruel Is Voted American League Premier Receiver

O'Farrell, Chicago, 20; Snyder, New York, 11; Hargrave, Cincinnati, 6; Henline, Philadelphia, 4; O'Neill, Boston, 4; Gomales, St. Louis, 3; Schmidt, Pittsburgh, 2; Gowdy, New York, 1; DeBerry, Brooklyn, 1.

The feature of this vote is the showing of Taylor, who, although used as a pinch hitter in the first few seasons he has been up, came cast this year and helped a lot in the upward rush of the Brooklyn team, catching a majority of its games. His hitting and all-around work marks him as a fine prospect for next year. He not only tied O'Farrell, of Chicago, for second place in the first choice voting, but was second only to Hartnett in the second-choice voting. Batting records of the three leaders show:

G. A. B. R. H. P. C.
Hartnett 110 353 56 106 300
Taylor, 99 345 36 100 290
O'Farrell 113 357 45 102 236

McGowan picked Hartnett for his All-American team.

He immediately purchased the horse after driving it this fall. Coggins has sold many horses, but the price for Mag Abbe is one of the largest that he has ever received.

Steele High May Invade Atlanta During December

Tech High may play the touted Steele High eleven, of Dayton, Ohio, former national champions, in Atlanta, the first week in December in a post-season game. Steele will be the case if the Smiths complete the season without a defeat and if the north-easterners are satisfied with the officials suggested in December 4, Saturday, and it is quite likely that the game will go through. It would be a great battle, and although the Steele team has already defeated the Atlanta favorites, 23-7, and has a wonderful prep machine, Atlanta fans would flock to the game to see their southern eleven match strong with the former champions. Tech High would play a much better game on home soil, too, and the victory would probably be decided by one touchdown.

The game was suggested when the Tech High players voiced their dissatisfaction with the officiating of the game, claiming it to be decidedly partial to the Dayton club. Coach Steele, manager, mistaking Mr. Cheney's request for a post-season game next year in Atlanta as a challenge for a game this season, wrote the Tech High principal stating that Steele would be glad to make the trip this December if Tech High would submit a list of officials that suited the north-easterners.

Cheney decided that a game this year would be as good as never, and answered by suggesting December 4 as the date and offering to submit his list of officials as soon as he heard from the Dayton manager. Nothing further has been heard, and until it is seen that neither team is likely to suffer a defeat, the game will probably remain in this tentative position. If either team were to lose a game or two and be put out of the championship race in its district, the game would lose its color and appeal. Grant field is the logical grounds for the inter-sectional battle, and Mr. Cheney hopes to secure the field for that date. Battalion football will be in full swing at Tech, but it is hoped that the game set for that date can be changed.

Should the game go through, the battle would have nearly as much color and appeal and draw a large crowd.

Georgia Regulars Slated To Battle Frosh Today

Athens, Ga., November 4.—(Special).—A Georgia second team battled Coach Bachman's freshmen out Tuesday afternoon and a scrimmage for the regulars is slated this afternoon on Sanford field. Next Saturday in Charlottesville the Bulldogs meet Virginia.

The freshmen made a good showing Tuesday and worked Virginia plays to great advantage. The freshmen are in good shape, and Friday the Mercer freshmen will be played in Washington.

On a physical standpoint the Bulldogs are fit for the game with the year when he was most deserving of it and when he was at least 30 per cent more valuable than the regulars. When he was placed on top, a queer twist in the rules governing the award prevented him from repeating. According to the rules no player can be awarded the honor twice. So, while Walter Johnson was made the most valuable player, Ruth was the most valuable in reality and never the sluggest of a player.

In 1923 Ruth tried hard but near the finish of his run he was hit and passed him and finished 10 points ahead of Ruth.

This year Ruth set out to win the batting championship. He started the season with that end in view. Before he had always tried to knock the ball out of the lot; this year he tried to hit the ball through, rather than over the infield. When he had the infielders playing well back he took advantage of the situation often and bunted.

PITCHING to Ruth has been the most difficult problem of American league pitchers for five years. He is the most powerful threat in baseball, the greatest weapon on attack. Ruth, in the language of the sport, has them coming and going. Until this year he did not take full advantage of the fact.

No team has successfully combated Ruth at bat. He may be stopped for awhile since he goes into slumps probably more often than the average player, but sooner or later "the Ruth crushed" will rise again.

Pitchers claimed to have found a delivery that stops Ruth. Sometimes it did, but not for long. Sooner or later Ruth saved it.

Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Americans and who was for several years a team-mate of Ruth, says: "Ruth will hit any ball but he can see. That is certain. Then the only way to pitch to him is to feed him the kind of ball he is least likely to see and that is a ball pitched over the inside corner of the plate just above the knees. Sooner or later he will see that delivery but it is the one he is least likely to see."

RUTH is deserving of the title of batting champion. While he is the most powerful batter in the game, he has produced he was never able to land on top of the batting averages because of his desire to hit home runs. He has scored against the home after through the infield and bunting this year he made himself much more valuable. Ruth was easily the most valuable player in his manager's file was awarded that honor in 1923, but this year when he was most deserving of it and when he was at least 30 per cent more valuable than the regulars. When he was placed on top, a queer twist in the rules governing the award prevented him from repeating. According to the rules no player can be awarded the honor twice. So, while Walter Johnson was made the most valuable player, Ruth was the most valuable in reality and never the sluggest of a player.

Fort Worth, Texas, November 4.—Frank Norfleet, ranchman and deputy sheriff of Hale Center, who lost one fortune to confidence men and spent another in chasing them to earth, has saved his home from a creditor. West Virginia Wesleyan will go to Syracuse and Brown will entertain the Haskell Indians. Pittsburgh will play Geneva. W. and J. will face Waynesboro.

PURDUE PICKS WALTHAM MEN

LaFayette, Ind., November 4.—Waltham, Mass., will have two representatives on the Purdue varsity football team in the two games remaining on the Boilermaker card. Captain Ralph Claypool, with a broken ankle, will not be able to play against DePaul on Saturday and will probably be out of the Purdue-Indiana game on November 22. His place at center will be filled by Red Threlfall, who has been with Waltham along with Tom Hogan, Purdue's star end. Only a light drill was held in the Boilermaker camp this afternoon.

GIRL RELEASED FOLLOWING QUIZ ON ESCORT'S DEATH

New Haven, Conn., November 4.—Coroner M. J. who is investigating the death of Charles R. Rogers, bond salesman and nephew of Mrs. Ogden M. Reid, of New York, who was found dead Saturday night, said today that it was a "unique case."

He said he had been unable to determine what manner Rogers died, but a fracture at the base of the skull. The coroner said there was no collision with the automobile in which Rogers was riding with Miss Mary Schneider at the time of his fatal injury.

Miss Schneider, daughter of a prominent local business man, was released Sunday after she had related as much as she claimed to have known about the accident. She said she had fainted and did not recall how Rogers was hurt.

The automobile, owned by Miss Schneider's family, was of an old type. The fact that a door to it was found in the highway is said to have been accounted for. The door was easily unbolted, it is said, and had bounced off many times.

COMPARING Ruth and Cobb is a popular pastime. There probably never were two players in the big leagues who less resembled one another in type than Cobb and Ruth. Cobb was never the sluggest of a player, and Ruth was never the scientific batter that Cobb was. As far as hitting is concerned you can compare the two consecutive five seasons from the record of each player.

In batting Cobb is 27 points ahead of Ruth, comparing them on the basis of the last five seasons of their careers. Cobb is considered as a base runner and Ruth is not, while Ruth's home run record is included and Cobb's is ignored. Ruth never stole more than 17 bases in a season and Cobb never made more than 12 home runs in a year.

Cobb stole 22 bases last season and that is his best record since 1921, when he stole the same number. Ruth will never be able to equal Cobb's record for hits and he will come nowhere near touching his basestealing total. It is not likely that Ruth will score as many runs as Cobb has scored in the last five years. Ruth has scored more runs than Cobb in any year since 1910. But Ruth has many seasons to go before he can get within grasp of the Cobbian lifetime total. Only in home runs will he excel Cobb.

L. S. U. Offense Presented By Freshmen Aggregation; Barron, Harris Are Hurt

BY JULIAN GRIFFIN.

The Yellow Jackets went through a brisk scrimmage yesterday afternoon, the entire varsity squad was carried in preparation for the encounter with Louisiana State here Saturday. The Techmen came out of the scrimmage in fairly good shape, except Carrier Barron and Frank Harris, who were taken out of the battle on account of injuries.

When the teams first came down on the field for the afternoon workout, the entire varsity squad was carried around behind the north stands, now being erected, for a little private drilling, which spectators on the field could not see.

After staying back there about an hour going through secret work, the yellow-jerseyed boys came out and donned helmets for the rough work with the freshmen, which lasted until well after sundown and just about dark.

L. S. U. Plays Used. The freshmen, as usual, were using formations of the future rivals of the first team, which happens to be L. S. U. this time, and the fresh gained content to carry on their work of solving a defense for the enemy formations.

During the short while the varsity carried the ball, the work of Parrish was again a feature. This swift little back was able to get through the disguised L. S. U. defense more consistently than any other man. The men who played in the Notre Dame game Saturday were not called on for much of the hard work. Wyoff called signals from huddle formation part of the afternoon, but he then stepped back and let the others pile up. His services in the games are too valuable to run the risk of hurting out there in scrimmage, or such was deemed wise yesterday. The first team may be called on for scrimmage against the freshman crew this afternoon, however.

The Injured List. The Tech team seems doomed to carry a list of injured members in stock. Just as Moore, Reeves and Harris were returning from the hospital, Harris is banged off in scrimmage again and "Little Red" Barron was also sent down for the count. It is not known how long the injuries will keep Barron and Harris out or keep Farnsworth, Morde and others on the hurt list company, but their early return to the game is ardently looked forward to at Tech.

It will be no new job for Mike Donahue to bring a football team here to meet the Yellow Jackets, and Tech has long since learned not to take one of Mike's teams lightly. The former Auburn member is recognized as one of the south's leading gridiron strategists, and he will be here Saturday loaded for bear.

Baton Rouge, La., November 4.—(Special).—After a 10-7 defeat Saturday at the hands of the Arkansas Razorbacks at the state fair grounds, LSU is a triple threat in scrimmage again and "Little Red" Barron was also sent down for the count. It is not known how long the injuries will keep Barron and Harris out or keep Farnsworth, Morde and others on the hurt list company, but their early return to the game is ardently looked forward to at Tech.

That the Tigers have been overworked is evidently the opinion of the Louisiana mentor, who is running his men through surprisingly light workouts with the view of getting them out of the apparent slump into which they have fallen.

Although losing to both Arkansas and Auburn by the small margin of three points, Louisiana has a team that is likely to give trouble to any eleven. The "clean victories over Indiana and the strong Texas team which Saturday defeated Texas 19-0 are indicative of the fact that the Tiger squad will bear watching.

Donahue has perfected a line average 193 pounds that has proven very little impenetrable to the strong

INTERNATIONAL GOLF TOURNAMENT SOUGHT

New York, November 4.—The Women's Eastern Golf association has appointed Mrs. Dorothy Hurd Campbell, present champion, now traveling in England, a committee of one to interview officials of the Ladies' Golf Union of Great Britain regarding a women's international match between the U. S. and England.

The idea is to play the match annually in one of the three nations since the last time it was played was between men's teams from the United States and Great Britain.

CONVICT KILLED TRYING TO ROB NEW YORK CAFE

New York, November 4.—John J. Clark, who was identified by the police as a convict out of Sing Sing two months, held up the cashier of a restaurant in lower New York today and was shot and killed by policemen as he fled.

The man had backed the restaurant cashier into a corner and had overawed five patrons when the tinkle of the cash register bell attracted the attention of Joseph Karpodines, the proprietor. Karpodines, who had been the victim of a hold-up man more than a year ago, was armed and he opened fire from a protecting wooden partition. His shots went wild and the bandit fled.

When he reached the street his companion, in a taxicab, alarmed by the firing, was driving off. Meanwhile, two patrolmen joined the chase. Both fired and the bandit staggered into a basement, where he was found dead.

Women in Business

PART II.
BY JULIA HOYT

Many women have not time to do their own shopping.

(Copyright, 1924, in United States and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

A business which has developed greatly, if it has not actually started within the last few years, is that of shopping for other people. It seems to me that this should be quite an amusing work, provided one is physically strong. It could be started on a small scale and might very easily grow to quite a large business, as has one that already exists in New York. There are many people who do not live in large cities and yet would like to have certain things bought for them there, and who would rather trust to the taste of an individual than to a catalogue or to buying from illustrations. I certainly would never advise anyone to buy from illustrations after some of the experiences I have had. Only the other day I went to a shop and hoping to find a certain shop asking for something I had seen enticingly illustrated. The actual article was entirely different. In addition to the people who would like to have their shopping done in the large cities and who do not live there, there are some who have not the time to hunt and are very glad to pay a small commission to a lady who will do the necessary hunting for them.

even if she does not actually do the final buying. She shops until she has tracked down the best of whatever is desired and the prospective buyer then goes to one or two places to make her choice. Attractive circulars are rather important to this business as they are to many others, and even if one is going to start on a small scale a certain amount of money must be spent on having them made and sending them out. If one has absolutely no money for initial expenditure and yet this work seems appealing, it should be possible to start it going in a very small way by writing acquaintances, and then, if one proved efficient and pleased the first clients, I believe the business would undoubtedly grow and it would then be to send out circulars and develop it to the extent one wants.

As I said at the beginning of the article, it is essential to be strong in order to do this work. We all know there is nothing much more tiring—amusing as it is at times—than shopping. In addition to this requirement, one should also have instinct with regard to the probable taste of clients besides having good taste oneself. Needless to say, the woman doing this work must remember that what might please Jane Smith might not please Ruth Jones, but in my opinion this would be almost the most amusing side. There is nothing as interesting as studying other people and I can imagine becoming quite excited over mentally picturing the appearance, taste and personality of each correspondent. One would, undoubtedly, improve in this through experience and would also soon learn how successful she had been through the success or failure of the business.

Then, taking it for granted that the business has become larger and that assistants are employed, the head of the business would choose women for specialized buying; in other words, one woman who had taste for clothes might not have taste for furniture, etc.

THE PROBLEM:

What is the Sum Total of the Figures Forming the Elephant? Include the Figures in the Groundwork Under the Elephant. Simply Add Them Up to Get the Solution.

There are no marks, lines or characters in the elephant except figures. These figures range from 2 to 9, each standing alone. There are no "ones" or "ciphers." There are no groups of figures such as "23" or "42." The heads of the "6's" are distinctly curved, while the tails of the "9's" are straight, or practically so. There is no trick or illusion of any description in the chart.

General Rules of the Contest

1. All bona fide residents of Georgia and adjoining states, meaning Alabama, Florida, North and South Carolina and Tennessee, may take part in this contest; except employees of The Atlanta Constitution and members of their families.

2. Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire, provided payment of one of the three amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution. NO SOLUTION NOT ACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.

3. Only one prize will be paid to any person, household or group of persons working together. When, in the judgment of the contest manager, two or more solutions have been copied or worked in collusion, such solutions may be rejected by him and the subscription money refunded.

4. The Atlanta Constitution is to decide any questions which may arise that are not covered by the published rules, and those entering this contest agree to abide by such decisions and accept them as final and conclusive.

5. All solutions must be mailed or delivered to The Atlanta Constitution office on or before 9 p. m. Saturday, November 8, 1924. Solutions sent by mail bearing postmark of that date will be accepted if rules governing same are complied with. This contest extends from Sunday, September 28, to and including Saturday, November 8, 1924.

6. In case of ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are people tying for prizes. Any prizes are awarded for less correct solutions and another puzzle will be submitted to those tied. That is, if two or more people should tie on the best solution, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for them, and they will be awarded in the order of the standing of their solutions or of the second puzzle. If the still result, as many as four tie-breaking puzzles will be used, after which should ties still result each contestant will receive the full value of the prize tied for.

7. This contest is open to both new and old subscribers alike. The regular subscription rates of $2.50 for three months, $5.00 for six months, $9.50 for twelve months to the daily and Sunday Constitution will prevail. Daily only subscriptions not accepted in this contest. Full amount of subscription must be remitted in every instance. When sent through an agent no commission can be deducted.

8. A person who is now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution, and paying a carrier or agent by the week or month, may send or bring direct to The Constitution a three, six or twelve months' payment with the solution. Whatever is due such carrier, dealer or agent, must be paid to him, as the remittance sent us will date from the day it is received. The carrier or agent will be notified by The Constitution of such advance payment. Renewals on mail subscriptions will be extended for the length of time paid for from present paid date of expiration.

The contestant can have solution credited in his or her name and paper sent to some other party. Two six-months' subscriptions at $5.00 each equal to one yearly subscription. One six-months' subscription at $5.00 and two three-months' subscriptions at $2.50 each, total remittance, $10.00, equal to one yearly or two six-months' subscriptions.

DECIDING TIES—IF ANY

In case of ties, these ties for any prize will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of a chart of figures, like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary, this chart will be used four times, after which, should any ties remain, each contestant will receive full value of any prize tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting the Elephant, no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

This chart will be mailed to only those that tie, if there be any, after the closing of the elephant adding contest, November 8th.

Tomorrow—This Winter's Make-Up.

THE PRIZE LIST

Note.—The value of the first nine prizes depends on how much you pay on your subscription with your solution of the puzzle. The amount paid will be applied to Daily and Sunday. Daily only subscription payments will not be accepted in this contest. Tri-Weekly subscriptions not accepted.

Solutions sent by mail with remittance, bearing postmark of that date, will be accepted. No solution can be changed after it has once been registered.

It will be well to remember that while the amount you pay with the solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning a prize, it does affect the amount you will receive should you win one of the first nine prizes, as the value of these prizes is determined by what the winners pay. This is explained in the prize list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution.

The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning a prize. Accuracy is what counts. No more than one prize will be awarded to any one person or family.

Additional charts may be secured at any time by calling at The Constitution office, or sending a self-addressed stamped envelope for mailing them. Address the Contest Manager, The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Thousands Pack Five Points To See Constitution Returns

BY RALPH T. JONES.

All over Five Points, massed in dense crowds, thousands of Atlantans stood, Tuesday night, faces turned upward toward two screens on top of one of the buildings on the Marietta street side, to read the bulletins of The Constitution which told of the results of the national election.

Behind the screens, in a small room, a corps of newspapermen, telegraphers, telephone operators and assistants worked behind two stereoscopic machines, radiating heat in the confined space.

The clicking wires brought in the news of how the vote had gone in California, a few scant minutes after the tellers in the Pacific coast state had finished counting the ballots in the individual precincts. In another minute, just long enough for the story to be written upon a slide, it was flashed upon the screen, and thousands of Atlantans knew what they thought of Coolidge, of Davis and of La Follette 3,000 miles away.

Another slide appeared. A minute, this time, from Massachusetts, telling the figures on the election in another corner of the mighty country which yesterday elected a president for another four years.

Then there was a minute or two of waiting. The wires were silent, breathing for a spell before they carried more of the results of the election from the distant places.

A cartoon slide flashed on the Five Points screen and the democrats of Atlanta forgot their disappointment as they laughed at the picture of Andy Gump, 100 per cent for the people, eagerly asking them to wait until the returns came in from Griffin.

All right, from 6 o'clock to midnight, the crowds stood. Street cars slowly picked their way through the massed thousands. Police struggled valiantly to hold the lanes of traffic through the heart of Atlanta open. Down Edgewood avenue, until the corner buildings cut off the line of vision, the people stood. Banked deep in front of Tom Pitts and the other stores, they patiently waited, reading and commenting on the returns which the screen brought to them, a new bulletin every minute, a new dispatch telling the story of the bulleins.

Many Strangers in Crowd. Some there were who were strangers in the city. More interested, possibly, in the race for the governorship in New York, they gazed at the figures. From time to time a bulletin came for them, telling now that Smith was leading, then again recording the fact that Roosevelt had taken the lead.

Pictures of the presidential candidates flashed from time to time upon the screen. Then, in the Georgia election, the first time in the history of the state that the Constitution's famous daily comic page, then more election returns. A Texas in the crowd slipped with glee when the screen told how "Ma" Ferguson was winning her race for the governorship of the Lone Star state, the first woman to win her way to a gubernatorial chair.

A loyal republican from Wisconsin cheered when it seemed at one time, that Coolidge was going to defeat La Follette in his home state, Mississippi went democratic again. And Polk county, Georgia, went democratic for the second time in 60 years.

Three Fulton precincts went for La Follette and two for Coolidge. More cheers.

Andy Gump got a vote. The democratic ticket.

NORTH CAROLINA GOES TO COOLIDGE BY 100,000

Raleigh, N. C., November 4.—John W. Davis, on the basis of early and meager returns received from the election in North Carolina today, will carry the state by an indicated majority of more than 100,000. This is the first time in the history of four years ago for Coolidge.

The democratic state ticket, from Angus W. McLean for governor on down, will go into office with an increased majority virtually as large as that for Davis. All of the democratic candidates for congress, with the possible exception of Representative Weaver of the third district, who has no returns have been received, apparently have been elected by substantial majorities.

The vote for John W. Davis in 290 out of 1,750 precincts was 52,006 to 16,474 for Coolidge and 2,000 for Robert M. La Follette.

The term terminal development measure showed a vote of 43,148 for and 39,313 against it in the 330 precincts reported at midnight.

Voodoo Victims Pay $1,015.

To rid themselves of a "voodoo" conjured up by a "voodoo" conjurer, Tony Maglio and his wife, of Boston, parted with all their savings, amounting to $1,015. The couple had originally visited the fortune teller's studio out of curiosity, but were so impressed that they made repeated trips, each time learning of impending tragedy and a terrible doom which would befall them unless they paid in sums of $500 to avoid the happenings.

DEFEAT FORESEEN FOR MONARCHISTS

BY ERIC KEYSER.
Berlin, November 4.—Internal troubles among the nationalist and fascist groups, which represent the extreme right in German politics, have filled the republican elements with hope for a real victory in the national elections to be held the latter part of next month.

The campaign will open in earnest within the next 30 days, after the parties have established the battle lines on which they will carry their fight to the voters.

Split on Ludendorff.
So far, unhappily, prevails in the nationalist and fascist camps. The latter, which represent the monarchist sentiment of Bavaria, are divided on the candidacy of General Ludendorff, who intends to run for election to the reichstag.

Many members of the party are urging that he retire from politics before he is beaten at the polls, but most of the leaders insist on maintaining the candidacy of the old war hero and say that they will keep his name at the head of the list. He would be mortally offended, they declare, if an effort were made now to sidetrack him.

Fascist Funds Low.
To provide further cause of worry, the funds in the fascist campaign chest are at a dangerously low ebb. The nationalists are suffering from family squabbles, too, although these may be ironed out at the party's convention next week.

All the other parties, except the communists, are gleeful, for they believe the dissension among the monarchists presents an opportunity for a victory of republicanism and the supporters of the Dawes plan.

It is everywhere predicted that the extreme elements will lose.

Nationalist Victory Dangerous.
Banking quarters are circulating the story that foreign credits will be restricted should the socialists win—outright to explain that German socialists are scarcely more radical than democrats or independents in America.

They also pass up in silence the fact that a monarchist victory would mean gradual sabotage against the Dawes plan, or that the nationalist platform openly opposes the republic and fulfillment of the Dawes plan.

Foreign eyes regard a nationalist victory as much more dangerous for the rest of the world than victory by the middle parties or the socialists.

FIRST EASTERN WOMAN IS SENT TO CONGRESS

Jersey City, N. J., November 4.—Election of Mrs. Mary T. Norton as the first woman to represent an eastern state in congress was virtually conceded here Tuesday night. She is a democrat.

Mrs. Norton's victory was practically certain, as the 12th congressional district is normally strongly democratic and the normal democratic vote seemed to have been polled.

She is the wife of Robert S. Norton, who is in the cooperative business here and a prospective entrance into the hall of congress is due to Mayor Frank Hague, prominent state democratic leader, who placed her in nomination.

A movement to have railroads return to the "penny-a-mile" fares of pre-war days has been started in England.

GERMANS HOPE TO KEEP ZEPPELIN FACTORIES

Akron, Ohio, November 4.—Contrary to recent reports the factories of the German "Zeppelin" corporation are not being dismantled, Dr. Hugo Eckener, president of the board of directors of the corporation, said after his arrival in Akron.

"Germany is going to do everything possible to preserve and maintain them," he said. "It is not fair that Germany should be required to abandon the construction of Zeppelins for which her people have struggled so hard for many years. We are going to ask the allies to reconsider this provision of the treaty, and hope they will permit us to continue the work in which we are just now winning so much success."

Dr. Eckener, commander of the ZR-3 on his flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, N. J., is in Akron inspecting the aeronautic division of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. The Goodyear Zeppelin, which owns the patents and manufacturing rights of the old German Zeppelin corporation, is a subsidiary of the rubber company.

GERMAN REJECTS LEAGUE PROPOSAL AS IMPRACTICABLE

Washington, November 4.—The German government, it was learned here, has sent a letter to the league of nations rejecting the plan of mutual assistance as impracticable.

The German answer argues that the idea of an "aggressive war" cannot be clearly defined, and that in many cases the declaration of war can be interpreted as serving defensive aims.

The letter further declares that the council of the league of nations does not present an independent court of arbitration, because its members are selected by the great powers, who act under instructions from their respective governments and that the provision that decisions must be unanimous is a grave handicap for functioning of arbitration.

The German government makes the following counter proposals:

1. To prohibit a separate agreement contradicting fundamental ideas of the league's covenant and to cancel all similar stipulations in existing treaties.
2. To supplement the world court, which has to deal with legal contents, by an arbitration court for political conflicts invested with compulsory authority.
3. Compulsory world-wide disarmament.

SAYS EUROPE WASTING ITS LUMBER SUPPLIES

Stuttgart, Germany, November 4.—A German interested in the lumber trade, Ernst Wiche, of Bremen, has published in a local paper a note of warning. He says Europe is wasting its lumber supplies in meeting the enormously increased demand since the war.

All the wooded areas of Europe, including Russia and Scandinavia, amount to 158,000,000 acres, and these are being cleared so rapidly, according to Mr. Wiche, that in 20 years to come Europe will have to import wood from America.

ATTENDANCE BOOMING AT LONDON THEATERS

AT LONDON THEATERS

London, November 4.—There are happy smiles in London's theaterland. West End playhouses are experiencing the biggest boom in attendance in many months.

"It's partly due to what has come to be known as the 'little social season,' added and abetted by a spell of weather which, if not ideal, is at least an improvement upon that which characterized the spring and summer months.

"The boom is undoubtedly due to the improvement in the weather," said one theatrical producer. Also the evenings are drawing in. Daylight saving is always a blow at the theater. Now people haven't time to play tennis before it gets dark, and in consequence they go to the theater.

"It is perhaps unfortunate that the standard of plays is not what it was in pre-war days. There is a dearth of playwrights. No new names are coming along. Of course there is an army of those who write high-brow stuff, but their efforts are wasted on the general public. We want men who can write popular plays."

BARN AT ALTOONA FAMED AS SHELTER FOR ALL TRAMPS

Altoona, Pa., November 4.—Although it is only a barn, it has a reputation throughout the United States. It is known as Hagerty's barn and it is located on the outskirts of Altoona. Years ago a man named Hagerty, who lived just outside the limits of this city, owned the barn, which became a favorite stopping place for the knights of the road traveling along the route of the present Lincoln highway. Mr. Hagerty never objected to the hobos stopping in his barn, and after fire, believed to have been started by them, destroyed the original building. Mr. Hagerty built a new barn and when he died, enjoined his heirs never to close the building to tramps. The heirs have done his bidding.

SWEDISH ENGINEER DISCOVERS METHOD TO EXTRACT STEEL

Stockholm, November 4.—Discovery of a method for extracting pure steel and for iron directly from iron ore, eliminating the use of melting furnaces, is announced by the Swedish engineer, Flodin, of the Hagfors Iron Works.

The invention, which is the result of extensive experimental work, has already been patented in Sweden and experts will immediately be submitted to practical tests on a larger scale.

Luxurious Palace Of Turkish Sultans May Become Hotel

Of Turkish Sultans

Constantinople, November 4.—Rumors that Dolma Bagiche, the palace of the ex-Sultan Mohammed V, is to be sold to a company which will convert the imperial residence and extensive grounds into a hotel and amusement park, have stirred up much excitement in the old Turkish capital.

Will the Seraglio go next? Is the question generally asked. Is the whole Seraglio to be converted into a "Midway Plaisance" and robbed of its historic charm? Will the Ankara government sacrifice the ancient landmarks of the Turkish empire in an effort to raise money to keep the nationalistic government going?

Turks and foreigners alike are asking these questions as they survey the panorama of mosques and palaces along the Golden Horn and Bosphorus which lend charm to this ancient city over which Europe and Asia have been fighting for many centuries.

There are rumors that $1,500,000 has been offered for the palace and its extensive grounds and that promoters intend to convert it into a hotel, which will be more magnificent than any in the east and have a theater, amusement park and gigantic cafe in connection with it.

It is said that the palace is a magnificent frontage on the Bosphorus and an extensive quay, which will make it possible to handle tourist traffic direct from incoming steamers to the hotel.

It becomes more apparent daily that when the German legation moves to Ankara, other powers will also be forced to desert their magnificent legation buildings in Constantinople and follow the lead of Germany.

DRY LAW IS ATTACKED BY SMITH PROFESSOR

BY SMITH PROFESSOR

South Hadley, Mass., November 4.—Speaking before the school of politics at Mount Holyoke college, Frank H. Hankins, professor of economics and sociology at Smith college, advocated "a policy of passive resistance" to prohibition.

"A fierce and violent enforcement of summary laws of an extreme sort may achieve outward conformity but inevitably leads to secret and multifarious immorality," he said, referring to the "Volstead act."

"In mind, there is an indication that the time has arrived for admitting that the law has gone too far.

"The line of true advance is a temporary retreat. Such retreat is by good English and American tradition accomplished by a policy of passive resistance. It is admittedly a choice between obnoxious evils. There is on the one hand the evils of non-enforcement of established law and on the other the evil of continued corruption of public morality. The former seems the lesser evil. It is politically unsound to destroy the freedom of the vast majority, in order to impose on theologically unjust the assumed benefits of the forcible restraints of a benevolent paternalism.

"The sensible policy is to find some plan which preserves the essential freedom of the individual, secures also the essential protection of the community from the vices and excesses which accompanied the old saloon and yet reduces official corruption to a moderate and tolerable amount. A reconsideration of the existing law seems inevitable and it can be hastened by refusal to endorse the present hypocritical pretension."
